Decade Has Passed Since School Merger Battle But Not All Wounds Have Healed

There was fighting in the streets in those days: on the dinky platform in the early morning, in the crowded little public library in Bainbridge House at mid-day, in the Nassau Street school auditorium in the evening.

These were the pre-school-merger years of 1965-66, the years when Borough and Township citizens shouted and snarled and cajoled and harangued and insulted and sometimes even reasoned with one another over this question:

"Should Borough and Township school systems be merged to create a single, regional system?"

Even today, there are people who do not speak to one another because of words said at that time. Newcomers are baffled -- "You mean Princeton had TWO school systems?"

It was ten years next Monday, on June 21, 1966, that the "yes" referendum was passed by Borough and Township voters. It was the second such referendum, the first one having been defeated eight months before.

Ironically, of course, in this very anniversary year, the per-pupil cost sharing formula, so vital a part of the 1966 negotiations is once again dividing the community.

"I feel almost betrayed," says Bonnie Wagner, a strong proponent of merger and a member of the Borough school board that saw it through. "Per-pupil costs made sense! To have it washed out now doesn't give you confidence in public bodies. It was because of the per pupil cost arrangement that the Borough went along..."

"I remember," says Mrs. Orren Jack Turner, who with her husband was a strong opponent of merger, "that when my husband asked Bill Miller (the Borough's school board attorney) whether he could guarantee the per-pupil cost arrangement, Bill replied, 'There is no assurance.'"

Why did merger seem like a good idea?

Princeton High had 1,671 students (today's population is about 1,100;. It was the Borough's school. Every other district--including Princeton Township--was a sending district, without a voice in operation of the school. But Borough students were in the minority There were only 354 of them, compared to 626 Township students and a total of 697 from West Windsor, Plainsboro, Montgomery, Rocky Hill and Hopewell.

Princeton Township wanted a legal part in running the high school to which it contributed so many students and so much tuition money -- $690 per student per year, no less! At the time West Windsor and Plainsboro phased out, one year ago, tuition was $2,290.

And Township parents were restive. The Township regarded its

Town Democrats Again Beset by Internal Strife; Battle Looms over Choice of Medvin's Successor

Princeton's Democratic Party, no different from its national counterpart in that its members seem to fight each other as much as they do the Republicans, once again has been showing signs of internal strife.

The discord surfaced most recently in the wake of Councilwoman Janice Schneier's decision not to seek re-election as chairman of the Democratic municipal committee, the party council made up of one man and one woman from each of the Borough's ten election districts, chosen by the voter's in last week's primary.

Mrs. Schneier and her husband, attorney Joseph Stonaker, were challenged by two of their Jefferson Road neighbors, John and Suzanne Huntoon, for the committee posts in the fifth district. Even though the Huntoons won, the law still allowed Mrs. Schneier to seek re-election.

But she did not. Dorothy Soper did, and defeated James J. Britt, 9-7, to become the new municipal committee chairman. Three committeemen were absent from the meeting. One seat is vacant due to the death of Murray Medvin.

In announcing her decision not to run, Mrs. Schneier voiced harsh criticism of one faction of the Democratic Party, the reform-minded Princeton Community Democratic Organization. Saying that "the past few years in politics have not been enjoyable ones," Mrs. Schneier added that when her current term on Council ends this fall that will be her "last hurrah" in Princeton politics -- at least for the foreseeable future.

Medvin's Successor? The simmering feud within the Democratic party could also influence the choice of a successor to Mr. Medvin. That choice is made by Council, with recommendations provided by the municipal committee and the PCDO.

Mr. Medvin's widow, Leona, has made known her interest to fill her husband's seat at Borough Hall. Marvin Trotman, guidance counselor and coach at Princeton High School and a candidate for Council in last week's primary, also has been mentioned as a possible successor to Mr. Medvin. Mr. Trotman and Mrs. Medvin, according to some political observers, come close to approximating the two sides in the Democratic Party rift. The choice of one over the other could increase the rift.

But that choice is still at least weeks off. First, Mr. Trotman has not abandoned his hopes of winning the Democratic nomination for Council. He lost in the primary to David Male, the 1974 Princeton High School alumnus, but by only three votes.

He and his attorney, Joyce Usiskin, went to Superior Court Tuesday to seek a recount. They hope to retabulate the machine results in all ten districts, plus take another close look at the paper absentee ballots, which gave Mr. Male his margin of victory, 26-18. The recount would occur within five days of the court order.

No Speedy Action. If Mr. Male's victory holds up through the recount, then Mr. Trotman might be considered a choice for the vacant Council seat. No one has given any indication of speedy action, however. "There is no obvious person," said Mrs. Schneier, "and none of us feels a great urgency to fill the position." She said that no action would be taken before July 1, when Councilman Martin P. Lombardo returns from California.

Mrs. Soper said "it would be inappropriate to delineate any course of action now. The newly elected committee hasn't even met except to elect the new chairman and vice-chairman." The latter is Jessica Lamkin.

Mr. Huntoon said the selection process should be open. "It's a time when many names could and should come forward. I hope Borough Council will engage in an active search using the two Democratic constituencies, the municipal committee and the Princeton Community Democratic Organization."

That is unlikely. Some members of Borough Council, led by Mrs. Schneier, have become vociferous opponents of the PCDO, which they charge has become the kind of establishment political force it was formed to oppose in 1968.

'Mainstays' Not Involved. That is the first of many ironies involved in the current Democratic feud. One of the founders of the PCDO was Mrs. Schneier, and she is still officially a member. But her views of what a political organization ought to do apparently have changed greatly in the last few years.

"I was president of the organization for two years," she says, "but I've become increasingly convinced that it doesn't serve Democrats in the Borough the way it should. The mainstays of the Democratic Party, the working class people, the blacks, the ethnics, are not involved in Princeton at the grass roots level. The Princeton Community Democratic Organization has failed to represent them."

The PCDO, charges Mrs. Schneier, consists largely of "higher educated, upper income Democrats. It's not healthy. The club doesn't discuss local issues. It would rather concern itself with broad issues of national importance."

In other words, Mrs. Schneier seemed to be saying, if you want to discuss the pressing issues of the day, confer with the PCDO. If you want a green municipal garbage can on your block, forget the PCDO.

Party Loyalty Issue. A basic disagreement among Democrats is how party affiliation should be weighed in making committee appointments. Mrs. Schneier thinks party loyalty is important. "We have partisan elections every year. How can you then turn around and say that the party doesn't have any role?

"I'm not saying that we have to stack boards with Democrats regardless of their ability," she continues. "But if the voters elect a Democratic majority year after year to Council I think the liberal, Democratic, progressive point of view should be represented rather strongly, particularly on the Planning Board."

Mrs. Schneier was once -- even her close friends would say -- all those things she now faults in the PCDO. She and her former husband, Ned Schneier, were reform Democrats with lofty goals in the days of the Vietnam protests. He was an academician. She now says of the PCDO, in an unfavorable tone, "they are mostly University-oriented."

As the wife of Mr. Stonaker, who grew up in Princeton and has been identified with the regular "firehouse" democrats, she has taken an increasingly dim view of the organization she helped form.

Center Seeks Volunteers

The Bicentennial Visitors Center, otherwise known as the Dinky Station, is now ready to receive and greet Bicentennial tourers. Volunteers are needed to staff the information desk at the Center and provide directions to the historic sites in the Princeton area.

Anyone who can spare a few hours a week to help is urged to sign up with Ruth Doan, who will be coordinating the volunteer staff. Ms. Doan will be at the refurbished railroad station on University Place this Thursday to answer questions and sign up volunteers.

Volunteers may also stop in at the Chamber of Commerce, 44 Nassau Street, or Bainbridge House, 158 Nassau, to join this effort.

She and Mr. Stonaker have become so discouraged with the current Democratic Party scene that they have told friends they sometimes think of pulling up their stakes and leaving Princeton altogether.

SPARKS FLY AS USUAL

At School Board. Faced with the fast approaching deadline of July 1 and the still very much possible Supreme Court order closing the schools in the state, the Princeton Regional School Board nonetheless found time at its Tuesday meeting for some of the recurring conflicts that have raged in the school system as well as several new ones.

About 40 people turned out on the hot, humid night to sit through the deliberations and tribulations. Among them were a group of high school athletic coaches, students and parents who are concerned about a major reduction in the athletic budget proposed for next year (see story Page 13B); one student concerned about the quality of education received by handicapped youngsters who must attend school outside Princeton; and one disgruntled adult upset because she felt she was not allowed to voice her views on a subject before the board.

High on the school board's list of concerns was the possibility that schools would be ordered closed in two weeks' time. Judith Getis reported that the New Jersey State School Boards Association had written the board, warning that "the public underestimates the likelihood of an injunction" and a statewide school closing.

She urged parents to contact their state representatives, urging their support of a statewide financing plan.

"We still have to plan on the clear possibility of an injunction," said Superintendent Philip E. McPherson, who added that an inability to plan bus routes during the summer, if the injunction is ordered, would be one of the major things delaying the school opening past the date now scheduled, September 9.

Trouble Lurking. All this discussion of the common foe of statewide financial difficulties appeared to generate some camaraderie among the board and the superintendent.

Dale Madden called Dr. McPherson "Phil." Dr. McPherson referred to past president Winthrop Pike when introducing a plan to revise certain administrative procedures, and said that the plan if adopted, should be called the "Pike Plan," since many of the changes were in response to recommendations from Mr. Pike. Mr. Pike managed a faint smile.

But trouble lurked, as usual. The group supporting the coaches grew restless. "We've been at the planning meetings the last two weeks," said Jim O'Neill, the baseball coach. "At the first one they wouldn't recognize us. At the second they let us read a statement and told us to come tonight. Now they tell us to come back next week."

Board president Dietrich Meyerhofer announced several times that the discussion of the athletic situation would be held at next Tuesday's meeting at the Valley Road School.

The student was Bill Ogilvie, who just completed tenth grade. He wondered if some handicapped students couldn't be educated better at Princeton than at special schools. His brother, who is deaf, attends the Marie Katzenbach School, which, Bill says, "is not exactly the greatest school." His suggestion drew a positive response from several members of the administration.

"Call the Police." Then the disgruntled adult, Mrs. Rosalind Frisch, an unsuccessful school board candidate this year. She tried to speak when the board passed a motion which closed the investigation of alleged grade tampering at the high school. Mr. Meyerhofer ignored Mrs. Frisch's waving hand and calls for a question and asked for a vote of the board.

Then he ruled Mrs. Frisch out of order. She continued to demand to speak, he moved on to other items, and ruled her out of order again. "Then you can get a policeman to get me out of here," retorted Mrs. Frisch.

Mrs. Frisch said later that the investigation was a "whitewash" and that Mr. Meyerhofer accepts or rejects questions from the floor "on a whim." He pointed out that any citizen, including Mrs. Frisch could ask questions at the end of the meeting.

Challenge by Sheehan Upsets Variance Approval Given for Construction of Willow St. Townhouses

Timothy J. Sheehan, the Princeton developer who has fought and lost more than his share of battles with the Borough Zoning Board, appears to have won a recent skirmish. But the victory seems more a matter of principle than anything else.

The case involves the proposed development of 14 townhouses on Willow Street, the privately owned street off Moore Street near South's Garage. The developer is not Mr. Sheehan's 146 Dundas Corporation, but Design Interface, a development corporation owned by several partners of the Hillier architecture group.

Earlier the Borough Zoning Board had granted applications for variances needed to construct the townhouses. But the decision was challenged in court by Mr. Sheehan's 146 Dundas Corporation. This month Superior Court Judge George Y. Schoch reversed the Zoning Board's approval.

The result is that Design Interface must seek to resubmit its application at next Thursday's 8:15 Zoning Board meeting, and that plans for the townhouses, once proceeding smoothly, have been disrupted.

The judge's order has left the developers confused and cautious. "As far as I know now, we will come back with the same plan," said Edmund Wilson, a vice-president of Design Interface and an associate partner in the Hillier architectural firm. "But when we talk to the Zoning Board there may be some reason to change. What could get changed I don't know."

Evidence Ruled Insufficient. The challenge hinged on a technical point. In accepting the developer's request for a variance, the Zoning Board based its decision on evidence of a "hardship" submitted by the developer. Judge Schoch ruled that the evidence submitted was insufficient.

"I think standards of proof should be the same for everyone," said Mr. Sheehan, as he began to explain the reasons for his court challenge. Mr. Sheehan was the developer of the partially completed building on Nassau Street at Markham whose own request for a variance based on a hardship need was denied by the Zoning Board.

Unfortunately, as Mr. Sheehan began to explain further his reasons for the challenge, he was interrupted by a long-distance telephone call from Texas. He said he would call back. He never did. A subsequent phone call was interrupted and the reporter was placed on hold. Mr. Sheehan's wife asked the reporter to hang up so she could use that line and said Mr. Sheehan would call back. He never did. Subsequent phone calls went unanswered.

People familiar with the case said that Mr. Sheehan's purpose is to prove to the public that the Zoning Board has discriminated against him in its past decisions. Mr. Sheehan owns no property near the proposed townhouse site, and has no business interest in the development's future success or failure.

More Challenges? Mr. Sheehan also is reported to be considering similar challenges in other Zoning Board cases.

Robert M. Dix, attorney for Design Interface, said that the developer's response will depend on what the Zoning Board says at its meeting next week. "Since the decision had to do with evidence which, in the court's opinion, was not sufficient," Mr. Dix said, "if we have another hearing we may have to bring in a stenographer to take notes to make sure all the evidence placed before the court."

The Zoning Board currently tape records its sessions.

The delay caused by the Sheehan challenge appears to have frustrated the developers. The townhouses, which would include three bedrooms, combination family room and study, game room, living room with fireplace, 2½ baths, and garage, are planned to be of the "highest quality," according to Mr. Wilson.

A Sensitive Point. How much would they cost? "With all the time that has been lost," said Mr. Wilson, "the price can't even be guessed right now." He added: "The project is at too sensitive a point right now to make any statements."

Other items on next Thursday's agenda include hearings to allow resubdivision of three lots and the demolition of one home at 25-29 Green Street; conversion of a single family dwelling to two families at 33 Willow Street; and several additions to a joint occupancy building at 357-359 Nassau Street, owned by the aforementioned 146 Dundas Corporation.

The Township Zoning Board meets next Wednesday at 7:30, with only one item listed on the preliminary agenda: a request by Rafaele Carnevale for a variance to build a home on a non-conforming lot at 67 Clearview Avenue.

MOFFAT STILL ABSENT From Township Proceedings. Township Committee, which has operated all this year with only four members, had hoped to welcome Democrat Abbot Low Moffat back to its ranks at this week's Monday night meeting. But instead the governing body had to struggle along not one but two bricks shy of a load.

Councilwoman Elizabeth Hutter, the senior Republican on Committee whose announced support of Mr. Moffat assured three votes in his behalf, was hospitalized with a leg infection. Her absence left Mr. Moffat with just two votes: Jay Bleiman's and Margaret Broadwater's. Republican Josie Hall was also present but she continued to refuse to take Mr. Moffat's side in the disputed election that created the vacancy.

Mrs. Hall's running mate last November, Tod Peyton, opposed Mr. Moffat. A voting machine breakdown appeared to deny Mr. Moffat what would have been enough votes to win the election.

Superior Court Judge George Y. Schoch last week agreed with that point of view, ordered Mr. Peyton's election overturned, and ruled that the Committee had to name a Democrat to fill the position.

Committee's hope now is that Mrs. Hutter will be back on her feet by the time of the meeting next Monday; that Mr. Moffat will be renamed to his seat at that time; that a mayor and deputy mayor can be elected for the balance of the year (Mr. Bleiman, last year's mayor, has been acting mayor); and that business can return to normal.

Fireworks Discussed. Business stalled this week as first Mr. Bleiman would say,

"perhaps we should wait until Abbot is back before considering this," and then Mrs. Hall would say "Duffy would probably want to say something about that."

Mrs. Hall wanted Mrs. Hutter to be present specifically for a discussion of an appointment to replace Dean Chace on the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority. Mr. Bleiman hoped that Mr. Moffat could be back for various discussions concerning bike paths and their constriction, including formation of a Bicycle Routes Advisory Committee.

Committee did consider the possibility of lending financial support to a Bicentennial fireworks display in Palmer Stadium over the Fourth of July weekend. Mr. Bleiman had met earlier with officials of the Jaycees, the University and American Legion to discuss the possibility of a joint effort, including also the Borough.

Last year the American Legion, which has traditionally sponsored the fireworks display in Princeton, cancelled its program, citing rising costs and declining attendance. The hope then was that the money saved could be reserved for a special effort this year.

Not Up To It. But, Mr. Bleiman reported, the cost of just a basic fireworks display is now listed at about $5,000, and "the Legion is not quite up to that."

Mr. Bleiman added that the view of some people is that this year's display, if there is one, ought to be free. "I'm trying to find out if Committee would be inclined to make a contribution of about $1,000."

Mrs. Hall said, "You hate to spend taxpayers' money on fireworks." Mrs. Broadwater added, "In terms of donating we shouldn't do more than $100."

Mr. Bleiman said he would report their reservations to the committee of people interested in fireworks, which was scheduled to meet Thursday.

TWO GIRLS THREATENED By Irritated Neighbor. A series of police charges have been made against a Princeton man, who, angered when he came in contact with an electrified fence, threatened members of the family on whose property he thought it was located.

Jeffrey A. Smith, 19, 38 Pardee Circle, has been charged with threatening to take a life, breaking and entering, using offensive language, malicious damage to property and two counts of trespassing. He is presently in Mercer County Jail in lieu of $15,000 bail, waiting his appearance in Township Court.

According to police, Smith was taking a short cut Friday evening around 7 through the rear of the property of Robert Wickenheiser, 390 Rosedale Road. Police said the rear of the Smith home backs up to the Wickenheiser lot.

Smith apparently became irritated when he allegedly ran into the electrified fence that surrounds a garden to keep deer out. Thinking it was on the Wickenheiser property -- a further investigation revealed that it is actually on the property of Robert L. Steiner, 406 Rosedale -- he entered the rear of the Wickenheiser home and allegedly threatened to kill Kristal Wickenheiser, 15, and her dog. Police added that he also used offensive language and made threats against Kristal and 6-year-old Kari Wickenheiser, the only two members of the family home at the time.

The girls, who police said became hysterical, called Township police. Smith was arrested by Ptl. Harry Morton. Before his arrest, however, he had cut down the fence.

SUITS, SHIRTS STOLEN From Department Stores. Two Cranston, R.I., residents have been charged following the theft last week of 19 shirts and two suits with a combined value of $872.50 from Hahne's Department Store in the Quaker Bridge Mall and two suits worth $150 from Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Richard R. Lioce, 37, has been charged with shoplifting the two suits from Bamberger's; William J. Martin, 20, with possession of stolen property. Bail on each was set at $2500 by Township Judge Philip Carchman.

They were arrested last week by Sgt. Norman Servis, Det. Frank Boccanfuso, and Det. Samuel Bianco of the Township Police and members of Bamberger's security after they were observed acting in a suspicious manner inside the store. Police stopped their car and inside were the shirts and suits that had allegedly been stolen.

Pallet Thieves Nabbed. Two Newark men, Harold Davis, 21, and Lawrence Millidge, 23, were stopped by Borough police last week and charged with stealing 11 loading pallets from the Shop Rite Store, Route 27, in Franklin Township.

Although the store manager failed in his attempt to stop them, he managed to get the license number of their fleeing van. Sgt. Robert Anderson heard the description over his patrol car radio, saw the van and stopped it on Nassau Street near John Street. After being charged with possession of stolen property, the two men were turned over to Franklin Township police.

$1875 FOR LOOP BUS: Everett B. Garretson of the Princeton Borough Merchants Association presents check for $1875 to Mayors Robert Cawley (left) and Jay Bleiman of the Borough and Township which will share the gift. Ten merchants--Palmer Square, Inc., H.P. Clayton, Davidson's Market, Nassau Interiors, Langrock's, Bellows, LaVake Jewelers, Stone's Linen, Toto's Market and Urken Supply--donated the money to help continue the Loop Bus during the summer.

Bartender Charged. Brain Shannon, 37, 103 Patton Avenue, manager and bartender for The Pink Elephant on Nassau Street, has been charged with two counts of selling alcoholic beverages to a 15-year old Princeton youth. He is scheduled to appear in Borough Court July 7.

"I think it is the appropriate time," commented Chief Michael Carnevale, "to put bartenders on notice that they are liable for selling to minors. It's their responsibility to make an accurate determination that those they serve are 18."

OUTER LOOP DROPPED

Inner Bus to Roll. The Joint Transportation Committee, in another one of its meetings to weigh the future of Princeton's Loop Bus system, decided last week that the limited budget would permit only the Inner loop -- and not the Outer loop – to continue in operation through the summer.

At that point, the committee and Loop bus riders hope, Mercer Metro will be ready to assume operation of the Loop system. That is the hope, but an ominous sign was the fact that representatives, scheduled to attend last week's meeting, did not.

The Transportation Committee also announced that, effective this Wednesday, the Loop would not begin operating in the mornings until 8:30. The 7:50 school and workers' special to Palmer Square and the various schools has been discontinued. It had only about a half dozen regular riders.

Last Friday the Princeton merchants who had pledged financial support to keep the bus running through the summer formally presented nearly $2,000 to the mayors of Borough and Township. Also present was Mrs. Murray Medvin, wife of the late councilman who was responsible for raising the merchants' contributions.

The Transportation Committee, to show its appreciation to the merchants, has offered them free advertising space on the buses. Community organizations wishing to announce their hours or special events also may use space on the buses.

BIKE PATH DEBATED

Along Bayard Lane. The continuing conflict over whether, why, and how a bike path should be cut into the bank along the western side of Bayard Lane dominated discussion at last week's Wednesday night meeting of Borough Council.

Council, which had proposed an eight-foot swath along this stretch leading down the hill to the Township line, suggested instead that a four-foot path be built, hoping that the reduction in scale would allay the concerns of some Bayard Lane residents fighting the proposed path. It did not, and the residents were there, along with their attorney, James J. Britt, voicing their objections.

The residents and Council finally agreed that the proposal be tabled so that it could be discussed with the Shade Tree Commission, the Environmental Design Review Committee, the Traffic Safety Committee, and the Planning Board. The residents are taking their case to those boards and, if they can meet with all of them in time, the proposal will be considered again at the next meeting of Council, July 8, a Thursday.

In other business, Council introduced an ordinance that would rename Avalon Place in honor of Princeton native Paul Robeson, the late black activist and artist.

Council also introduced a loading-zone ordinance for Bank Street and an anti-reprisal ordinance that would protect tenant members of the rent levelling board. Public hearings for these three ordinances were also scheduled for July 8. An agenda meet is scheduled July 7.

Mopeds Restricted. Council also heard and passed without debate an ordinance restricting the operation of "mopeds," those motorized bicycles, to the streets, and prohibiting them from walkways and bicycle paths.

The bicycle path on the western side of Bayard Lane will not encroach directly on anyone's private property – it is planned to occupy the Borough-owned right-of-way, but property owners object for several reasons.

According to Mr. Britt, the residents worry that the path will destroy a cover of vegetation that now provides at least a visual barrier from the busy uphill traffic on Bayard Lane. Also, the presence of bike traffic within three feet of the roadway at that point, the residents argue, "is an invitation to serious problems," in Mr. Britt's words.

They wonder further who will maintain the path, especially if mud from the enbankment washes down on the path during heavy rains.

Nowhere-Bound. The traffic does not seem sufficient to warrant the path, the residents argue, and the eastern side of Bayard, which already has a sidewalk connecting the Y, the Stanworth housing, and Comminity Park, seems to have a use more consistent with bicycling.

"On the western side the path would go from nowhere to nowhere," says Mr. Britt. "That argument might be rebutted by the fact that it will connect with the path on Stockton leading to Marquand Park. But then we could argue that it leads from Marquand Park to nowhere."

The Township has no immediate plans to continue the Bayard Lane path.

The Borough needs to meet minimum width requirements for the path in order to qualify for Federal financial assistance. Paths on both sides of Bayard would meet the requirements, just one on the east side would not, and the Borough would be left to fund the necessary improvements on its own.

TEACHER FETED: Because she is going on a year's leave of absence, past students from Mrs. Leah Riddle's 18 years at Littlebrook held a reunion in her honor. Posing with Mrs. Riddle, who is sporting a corsage, are the school nurse Mrs. Stanley Pazdan, (left) and her daughter, Peggy Pazdan Kopliner, who was one of Mrs. Riddle's first grade students in 1961-62.

TEACHER HONORED

After 18 Years at Littlebrook. Leah G. Riddle, elementary teacher at Littlebrook School for the past 18 years, was recently honored at a party as she prepared to enjoy a year's leave of absence beginning June 30. Expecting a small party with her present group of children, she was overwhelmed to see gathered students from the many years she has taught first grade and K-1 as well as past and present parents and fellow teachers.

"I can't think of a nicer thing to happen to any teacher," she exclaimed in surprise. "She's been one of the pillars of our school in maintaining Littlebrook's excellence," was Principal Lloyd Taylor's comment.

Judy Applegate, now a sophomore at Wooster College in Ohio, played the guitar and sang some of the songs that Mrs. Riddle teaches her classes. Earlier, the school music teacher, Mrs. Middlebrook, had taped students singing her songs, and this tape will be presented to Mrs. Riddle along with an album of pictures taken by John Count, film club coach, Jane Martin, now a student at Denison University, and Judy Bellemore, a parent. Judy Fulmer has done the art work on the album.

Parents and students joined to produce this reunion when it was learned that Mrs. Riddle was leaving for a year. Anne Cobb and Peggy Skillman arranged for the cake and flowers. Calls were made by former students Judy Applegate, David Caulton, Jane Martin and Diane Mooney and parents Helene Buckwald, Betty Fish, Marilyn Freeberg, Peggy Hastings, Rosemary Hunninghake, Ruth Langridge, Maryann Opperman, Lois Paul, Peggy Van Horn, Ching Volpp and Faith Yim, with the help of Julia Nemeth of Mr. Taylor's office.

Mrs. Riddle was also presented with an address book signed by all those who came to honor her for her 18 years of dedicated excellence in teaching.

PLANNING SESSION SET

For Fireworks Display. A meeting will be held Thursday at 5:30 to discuss plans for the Palmer Stadium community fireworks display on July 4 at American Legion Post 76 headquarters, 95 Washington Road.

Groups presently involved in the planning stage include Princeton Borough and Princeton Township, Post 76, the Princeton Jaycees, Princeton University, the Chamber of Commerce and the Princeton Community Bicentennial Committee. Service organizations, individuals and business firms are invited to attend, voice their ideas and lend support. For further information, call 921-7676 or 448-3234.

Motorcyclist Loses Life on Alexander Street

William H. Clauser, 22, 194 Washington Road, was killed late Monday night when his motorcycle hit the curb rounding a curve on Alexander Street near Dickinson, went out of control and struck a telephone pole.

Thrown from his cycle by the impact, Clauser was taken by the First Aid Squad to Princeton Medical Center where, police said, he was pronounced dead on arrival. Chief Michael Carnevale reported that police have not received a report of the autopsy yet but added that the victim had received internal injuries. His helmet was still on, he said.

Patrolmen David Alston and William Fitch responded to several calls around 11:30. Chief Carnevale quoted the only witness as saying that the motorcycle was heading toward Faculty Road at a moderate rate of speed when it hit the curb. The driver, the witness said, had difficulty trying to regain control.

After striking the pole, the spinning cycle continued on for another 95 feet. Mr. Clauser was found lying near the pole between the sidewalk and curb. Chief Carnevale stated that the witness reported there were no other vehicles, pedestrians, animals or known objects in the area at the time of the mishap.

The police investigation of the fatality -- the first in the Borough since December, 1974 -- is continuing.

The son of Mrs. Ann Kaufman and the late Raymond F. Clauser, Mr. Clauser was a lifetime Princeton resident and a 1971 graduate of Princeton High School. He was a former employee of Princeton Millwork Company.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Rae Clauser-Roeder, and a brother, Andray Clauser, both of Princeton.

The service will be held Friday at 11 in the Princeton Baptist Church at Penns Neck, the Rev. Daniel B. England, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in Penns Neck Cemetery. Friends may call at the Kimble Funeral Home, 1 Hamilton Avenue, Thursday from 7-9 p.m. Contributions may be made to the Princeton Baptist Church building fund.

Backing Mishap. Two cars were extensively damaged following a backing accident Sunday morning at 11:28 on Russell Road.

Mrs. Joyce J. Walstedt, 243 Russell Road, was backing out of a drive at 247 Russell, police report, when she failed to observe a car driven by Mrs. Elizabeth K. Huckins, 56 Finley Road. In the ensuing collision, 11-year old Patricia Ann Huckins sustained facial contusions and was taken to the Medical Center for treatment. There were no charges by Sgt. Michael Kopliner.

FETE A SUCCESS

As Hospital Benefits. Thousands of Spirited Fete goers thronged the Washington Road Field on Saturday in the festive celebration sponsored by the Auxiliary of the Princeton Medical Center to benefit the capital building fund and to honor Princeton and the University's role in the Revolution. Wearing patriotic colors and specially designed T-shirts, Fete revelers mingled with workers in colonial garb, clowns and a Princeton tiger, a colorful scene staged in near-perfect June weather.

The 1976 Ford Granada donated by Nassau Conover Motors was won by Mercedes Woods of Princeton Community Village. Winner of the quarter hind of beef donated by Toto's Market was Pat Boothby of Hamilton Township, who won the car two years ago.

Other prize winners included John Witherspoon School students Jimmy Field and Christopher Peters, who won the five foot tiger and the autographed biography of Gordie Howe, respectively; Alana Firester, Lee Benkowsky and Debbie Maziuk, winners in the art contest, who will receive lessons with the compliments of artists Eva Kaplan and Lonnie Sue Johnson and the Art Association; and Edward McCabe, who won the clay sculpture head by Pat Huckins. The fastest time recorded in the Revolutionary Run, an obstacle course, was 18.9 seconds by Robert Willis of Princeton High School.

In mid-afternoon, Governor Byrne arrived for a tour of Fete grounds with co-chairmen Miles Dumont and Jane Schowalter. He successfully rang the bell of the high striker, a popular new activity in the Teen Alley.

From the Auction Tent, winning bidders took home a car, furniture, paintings, china, silver and two live donkeys -- most at bargain prices. The auction continued until 8:30 p.m., 2½ hours beyond scheduled closing time. The first appraisal clinic attracted 90 people, some of whom brought treasures of unsuspected value.

Unsung heroes of the day included volunteers responsible for decorations and arrangements, squads of cheerful parking directors, a fleet of garbage collectors on tractors, RCA employees who provided and set up snow fencing, and others too numerous to mention.

The 23rd Fete will go down in history as a success by any measurement, particularly for the financial boost to the Medical Center's expansion plans for the surgical area, and for the spirit of cooperation among the hundreds of volunteers.

TWO WHEELS STOLEN

From Lease Car. Two steel wheels and radial tires with a value of $229.92 were removed last week from a 1976 Chrysler Cordoba parked at Nini-Chrysler-Plymouth, Route 206, which leases the car. It is owned by the Chrysler Corporation.

The edge of the right side of the car was damaged and a hub cap crushed as a result of the theft. It was reported by Anthony Nini, owner of the agency.

Money Bag Rifled. A bank envelope containing $240 was removed from inside a Princeton Bank and Trust money bag last week and police identified the victim as the Princeton University Class of '31.

The theft took place at the Hun School where the Class of

'31 was headquartered during reunion weekend. Someone, police report, gained entrance to the school library through an open window and removed the money. Nothing else was taken.

Borough police listed seven thefts last week on the docket.

Stereo equipment valued at $230 was stolen from an unlocked room in Spelman Hall, a student's wallet containing $65 and three credit cards was taken from an unlocked room in Witherspoon Hall and another student's wallet containing $50 was stolen from Middle Dod Hall.

A third-floor office at 134 Nassau Street yielded a $250 cassette player, a CB radio ($159.95) was removed from the car of a Township resident between 2 and 5 Friday afternoon while it was parked on Lytle Street, and a Harrison Street resident reported the theft of a $170 scanner from a dining room. Police said that the thief forced open a window while all the occupants were asleep.

Saturday evening near midnight, police investigated a report of a prowler near a home on Witherspoon Street. Later, they were able to ascertain that someone had reached in a window and taken a leather wallet containing $10 and credit cards.

ROCKY HILL LOSES

In Development Case. The Borough of Rocky Hill, which has been fighting a Somerville developer's plans to build multi-family housing on a 100-acre tract between Route 206 and Princeton Avenue, has been ordered by a Somerset County judge to rezone the land within 90 days to allow the developer "a reasonable, realistic use of the property."

Judge B. Thomas Leahy ruled that Rocky Hill did not necessarily have to approve the developer's plans exactly as they have been submitted. But the Borough did have to allow a use of the land which is "in harmony with the municipal obligation to recognize state and regional housing needs."

In 1972 the Borough's board of adjustment rejected a request for a zoning variance by the Landmark Development Company. The firm had proposed construction of 97 high density units, 345 middle-income units, 195 luxury apartments, and 113 townhouses on 75 acres of land, and an office complex on the remaining 25 acres.

The board rejected that proposal for the land, which is currently zoned agricultural, engineering, research, office.

Since that time Landmark and the Borough have been fighting the case in the court. As a result of this decision, said Landmark's general partner, Mel Toomey, "I'm hopeful that the Borough will take the position that, if it appeals, it will just be delaying the outcome. We can both stop making our attorneys wealthy by sitting down and working out something that makes sense."

9.3 Families per Acre. The Rocky Hill Council, meeting Monday night, indicated it probably would not appeal the case. Instead it would seek an extension of the 90-day deadline imposed by the court for rezoning, so that it can update its ordinances to conform with the judge's decision and with the new Municipal Land Use Act.

The eventual outcome fur Rocky Hill will almost certainly be another influx of people and commercial enterprises. Mr. Toomey said that his development, as it is now proposed, would provide a housing density of 9.3 families per acre. The Somerset County master plan calls for housing in the range of 5 to 15 families per acre, he said.

SENIOR ACTIVITY BRIEFS

10-12 noon, Pottery making at SRC.

Thursday, June 24: noon, YMCA program of films, bingo, etc. Bring sandwich, dessert and drink are provided.

The plot of land in question comprises nearly one-quarter of Rocky Hill's 410-acre area.

"What the judge is saying," Mr. Toomey's suggests, "is that we should sit down and work out a zoning plan that will address the housing needs and the orderly growth of Rocky Hill."

DINNER PLANNED

By Amnesty Group. The Princeton group of Amnesty International, an organization concerned with political prisoners around the world, will hold a pot luck supper Tuesday at 7 at the home of Henry Woods, 259 Mt. Lucas Road. Professor Paul Sigmund who has just returned from a visit to Chile will talk about human rights in that country.

In the 15 years since it was founded, Amnesty International has actively worked for the establishment of freedom of conscience throughout the world. It has also conducted a vigorous campaign against torture, which appears to be on the rise around the world today. Much of Amnesty International's work to alleviate the plights of long term prisoners, such as its letter writing campaigns and its attempts to mobilize public opinion and comment to be brought to bear on governments which are dilatory about human rights are conducted by local groups such as the Princeton one.

The Princeton group is looking for new members who will work for the release of a prisoner adopted by the group, a Chilean who is sentenced to several years in prison. The group is attempting to find out more information about why he was sentenced.

Another example is a Bulgarian who spent some time discussing Solzhenitsyn and other dissident writers with a visiting philologist and who was later arrested and sentenced to four years for subversive activities. The group has also been campaigning against torture in Uruguay and Chile.

Anyone wishing to come to the supper may call the Woods at 921-3573 for further details. Bring your own drink and, if you wish, something to eat, although main dishes will be provided.

TOP BRAND NAME APPLIANCES

DR. CHESEBRO HONORED: Dr. Paul R. Chesebro receives the congratulations of Governor Brendan Byrne for his 50 years of service as an educator in Princeton. Dr. Chesebro retires as Headmaster of The Hun School of Princeton July 1.

278 GRADUATE

From High School. Princeton High School graduation ceremonies were held Monday evening in Jadwin Gymnasium for 278 seniors. A complete list appears on Page 10B.

Ceremonies began with Gounod's "Ceremonial Processional" played by the High School Commencement Band, W. R. Horner directing. After the invocation by Dr. Arlo Duba, director of admission at Princeton Theological Seminary, Eileen Robertiello, president of the class of 1976, gave an address of welcome.

Robert Polais and Steven Redfield made the salutatory and valedictory addresses, respectively. Dr. Dietrich Meyerhofer, president of the board of education, presented the diplomas, assisted by Dr. Philip E. MePherson, superintendent of schools, and George Petrillo, principal.

There followed the Alma Mater, sung by the senior class, the flag salute led by the class president and the "Star Spangled Banner" played by the band and sung by everyone. Dr. Duba pronounced a benediction, and the newly-graduated class recessed to E. Melton's "Fanfare and Recessional."

NO PHS REGISTRATION

Over the Summer. George Petrillo, Principal of Princeton High School, has announced that in view of budget cuts, the Guidance Department will not be staffed during the summer months. Therefore, no registration or scheduling of new students will be done until Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 8, 9, and 10.

MORE FUNDS SOUGHT

By Red Cross. Last week the Princeton Red Cross Chapter launched a drive for disaster relief aid to the victims of Typhoon Pamela in the Central Pacific, but before the campaign could begin, the Teton Dam in Idaho burst and now additional funds are required to help 3,000 more homeless families.

Ann Honore, Executive Director of the chapter, has received a telegram from Red Cross National Headquarters asking the chapter to double its efforts, raising $3750. "This is over and above our recent drive for operating expenses and none of the money will be retained here," said Mrs. Honore.

Contributions may be sent to the Princeton Chapter, American Red Cross, 182 North Harrison Street, or delivered in person. Checks should be marked "Idaho-Guam Disaster Fund."

62d Year Marked. The Chapter celebrated its 62nd year at its annual dinner held at the Nassau Inn. It is the oldest chapter in New Jersey, founded in 1914 by Woodrow Wilson, then President, and Dr. John G. Hibben was the first chairman as President of Princeton University. Presidents of the university have continued to serve since that time as honorary chairman.

David G. Glen was re-elected chairman for another term, beginning July 1. Mr. Glen is owner of the Princeton Gift Shop on Palmer Square.

Other officers elected include Kenneth Wells, first vice-chairman; Harris Barnett, second vice-chairman; Paul Cunningham, third vice-chairman; Alice Braveman, treasurer; Robert J. Stewart, assistant treasurer; and Marnie Allen, secretary.

Serving on the Board of Directors for a three-year term are Libbie Johnson, Kate Tredennick, Maureen Gopel and Samuel Mather II. All are incumbent members.

New members elected for two-year terms are Almedia Pace, Robert J. Krebs III and Barbara Roudabush. Ms. Pace is principal of a West Windsor Township School; Dr. Krebs is Medical Director of Utilization and Medical Director of the Department of Community Health Services at the Medical Center at Princeton, and Ms. Roudabush is in Personnel Services at the Institute for Advanced Study. Serving a one-year term is James Kopliner, who is associated with Nassau-Conover Motors.

Red Cross Youth members re-elected for a one-year term are Lisa Freund and Betsy Gurk. T. Frederick Kenny of American Cyanamid continues to serve as solicitor, and other Board members and committee chairmen include Harry Haysbert, Albert J. Mennello, Richard Stoddard and Russell Bufkins.

TOWN MEETING PLANNED

By Jaycees and TM. The Princeton community is invited to attend a Bicentennial Town Meeting and Award Presentation to honor ten outstanding citizens of Princeton, Tuesday at 8 in the Palmer Room of the Nassau Inn. The program is sponsored by the Greater Princeton Jaycees and the American Foundation for the Science of Creative Intelligence, the Transcendental Meditation program.

Each of the ten award winners will speak on the fundamentals of success in their own life as part of the meeting. The award categories include education, art, business, science, public service, communications, leadership, and senior citizens. They are meant to honor those achieveing the highest ideals in each field.

STUDENTS GET $6,150

In Scholarship Grants. The Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation announced the recipients of educational grants totaling $6,150 to the Princeton High School Class of 1976 at Senior Class Night last Friday.

The recipients and the schools to which their grants will be applicable are Amy Dunbar, Williams; Allison Gibbons, C.E. Gregory School of Nursing; Andrea Gibbons, Central Pennsylvania Business School; Stephen Hoehle, Lincoln Technical Institute; Katherine Hommel, Guilford College; Loren Johnson, Bloomfield College; Claire Johnston, Dartmouth; Karlen Murdock, Rider; Ann Wells, Mercer County Community College; Edmund Wells, De Vry Technical Institute; and Robin Woodrick, Cittone School of Court Reporting.

Funds for grants administered by the corporation of the tax-exempt Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation were donated by local businesses, corporations, organizations, and the general public.

Included among the grants are the American Legion Auxiliary Post 76 Grant, the Leon & Ethelyn Allison Memorial Grant, the Princeton High School PTO Grants, the Princeton High School Student-to-Student Grants, the Princeton High School Alumni Grant, the PTO Council Education Grant, as well as the Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation Grants.

DIES WHILE WORKING

At Golf Course. Mark S. Pomykala, 25, assistant greenskeeper at the Cranbury Golf Club, was found dead Thursday in a golf cart in a small pond in front of the ninth green on the course near Dutch Neck. The cause of death has not yet been determined by the state medical examiner.

Born in Trenton, Mr. Pomykala lived in Dutch Neck for 20 years before moving to Fox Run Drive in Plainsboro. He was a graduate of St. Paul's School and Princeton High School and served in the Army National Guard from 1970 to 1975.

He is survived by his parents Stanley and Stella Pomykala of Dutch Neck; a sister, Mrs. Sue Ann Walker of Lawrence Township; and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Sophie Pomykala of Ewing Township.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Paul's Church with interment in Princeton Cemetery.

TWO LOSE LICENSES

For Drunk Driving. Two Princeton drivers lost their licenses last week in Township court for drunk driving.

Michael Curschmann, 134 Sycamore Road, lost his license for two years and was fined $210 (both are mandatory) while Scott C. Haldane, 456 Ewing Street, lost his for six months and was fined $60 for driving while impaired by alcohol.

Earlier in Township court, Judge Philip Carchman fined William Teague, 184 John Street, $210 for driving while his license was suspended. Mr. Teague also paid $15 for contempt of court.

Fined for careless driving were Jonathan S. Pike, 101 Leabrook Lane; A. Peter Gardener, 24 Scott Avenue; and Suzanne M. Deputy, 13 Sycamore Lane, Skillman, all $30, and Charles D. Lohnes, The Hun School, $25.

Charles F. Baunach Sr., 23 Poe Road, paid $30 for a stop sign violation, and Frances D. Arrecco, Lawrenceville Gardens, Lawrenceville, paid the same amount for failure to keep right.

Speeders Fined. In Borough court Monday, eight Princeton area residents were fined for speeding.

They are Anne L. Parrish, 88 Mountain Avenue, $15; Bernice Kopelman, 3 Balsam Court, $20; Robert H. Rickner, 69 Patton Avenue, $19 and $15 contempt of court; Bonnie J. Tolloss, 78 Dempsey Avenue, $15; Mary W. Gibbons, 2 Morven Place, $27; Jacquelyn Parmele, Rolling Hill Road, Skillman, $18; Margaret McGrew, 282 Mount Lucas Road, $15 and Geddes Hanson, 74 Ross Stevenson Drive, $15.

12 Stamps of Biplane Flying Upside Down Worth $170,000 to University at Auction

One of the rarest items in the world of stamp collecting has been sold by Princeton University for $170,000.

One of the remaining three blocks of four of the famous 24-cent U.S. Air Post of 1918 -- an airmail stamp accidently printed with the biplane flying upside down -- was sold at auction in New York on June 8. The stamp went to the Raymond W. Weill Co. of New Orleans, which already owned one of the three blocks in existence.

The $170,000 paid by Weill represents a record price for a U.S. stamp item, according to the New York firm of H.R. Harmer, which did the auctioning. Mr. Weill had purchased his first block in 1967 for the then record price of $100,000. He was one of four active bidders at Tuesday's auction.

According to Librarian Richard W. Boss, a substantial amount of the $170,000 will go to revamping Firestone Library's exhibition facilities on its main floor to allow the periodic display of the university's stamp collection, which for lack of exhibition space has remained locked away in vaults. The rest will go to general library service improvements.

Nora Kim, 158 Harrison Street, paid $30 and $25 for careless driving. Red light infractions cost Kurt Rottweiler, 5 Carter Brook Lane, and Herbert Kirchhoff, Spring Hill Road, Skillman, $15 each.

Others: Laura Kruskal, 60 Little Brook Road, $15, U-turn; Faye Catalono, 13 Olden Street, $20, stop sign; and Johnnie Hill, 118 Leigh Avenue, $30, improperly entering a highway. The latter was also fined $5 for contempt of court.

BOROUGH WINS

In Sheehan Suit. At his press conference Tuesday, Mayor Robert W. Cawley announced that Superior Court Judge George Schoch had ruled in favor of the Borough in its suit against Traveller's Insurance Company for protection in the long-standing dispute with Sheehan over erecting a building at 363 Nassau.

Judge Schoch signed a formal order assigning responsibility to the insurance company for legal defense expenses, an amount in excess of $100,000 as well as for any damages that may be assessed up to the maximum limits of the policy.

Judge Schoch also upheld the decision of the Zoning Board last September that recommends granting a use variance to Mr. Sheehan and that denied the extra two stories he sought for the incomplete building. However, Judge Schoch overturned a Zoning Board decision approving a project by Design Interface for a project on Willow Street as appealed by Mr. Sheehan. (See Page 3)

Fireworks on the Fourth of July traditionally staged by the American Legion, seem to be in trouble for lack of funds, unless a meeting Thursday can come up with a solution. Mayor Cawley said that both governing bodies have urged the Legion to honor their committment last year for a display, but have not yet offered the Legion financial assistance. The Legion estimates that it would cost from $6-7,000 for the basic fireworks and the additional police coverage needed.

There have been offers of manpower from the Jaycees as well as the Chamber of Commerce, but funds, Mr. Cawley said, seem to be the lacking ingredient. Mr. Cawley thought that the fireworks could take place either on a free basis, supported by the two municipalities, or with an admission fee. In earlier days, before skyrocketing costs, the American Legion was able to donate the proceeds from the fireworks to various charities.

University to Honor 44 Long-Time Employees At Reception Thursday -- 39 About to Retire

Forty-four members of the staff of Princeton University will be honored on Thursday at a reception given by President William G. Bowen at "Prospect," campus dining and social facility for faculty and staff and former home of Princeton's presidents.

Five of those to be honored are new members of the "quarter century club." Each will have completed 25 years of service to the University by June 30. Receiving sterling silver bowls engraved with the Princeton shield will be: Prosper F. Cima, Sr., of 40 Harrison Street, a trainer with the Department of Health Services; Raymond M. Durling, of Rocky Hill, a painter with Physical Plant who will retire in June; Arpad Hamarich, of Rocky Hill, an equipment operator with Physical Plant; Margaret G. Johnson, of 333 Ewing St., an assistant in the Registrar's office; and Ruth Mozgo, of 56 Edgemere Avenue, Plainsboro, a secretary with the Univeraity Machine Shops.

The remaining 39 to be honored are members of the non-academic staff retiring in 1975-76 after ten or more consecutive years of service. Collectively the retirees represent 813 years of service to the University.

The senior employee to be honored is Samuel G. "Gus" Davison of 85 Erdman Avenue, an electriciao who served for 50 years with the Department of Physical Plant. Two other Physical Plant employees who retired during the year served for more than four decades each. Marvin E. Rule, of 87 Laurel Avenue, Kingston, manager of utilities, who was in charge of the boiler plant, chilled water plant and generator room, had 44 years of service and Olindo Carnevale, of 190 Bayard Lane, a janitor, 43 years.

The other retiring staff members to be cited by President Bowen include:

John R. Coleman, 84 Columbia Avenue, Hopewell, Department of Physical Plant, 13 years; Sandy Evers, 71½ Columbia Avenue, Hopewell, Department of Physical Plant, 30 years; Marshall Sittig, 84 Main Street, Kingston, Director of Governmental Relations, 16 years; Donald A. Fruland, 61 Green Avenue, Lawrenceville, Plasma Physics Laboratory, 21 years; and Salvatore F. Scibetta, 435 Sked Street, Pennington, Security Department, 10 years.

From Princeton: Mary H. Borger, 34 Jefferson Road, Food Services, 19 years; Nelson F. Cox, 218 Varsity Avenue, Department of Athletics and Physical Education, 28 years; Elizabeth L. Kenney, 116 Alexander Street, School of Engineering and Applied Science, 21 years; Shelia Leyton, 224 Bayard Lane, School of Architecture and Urban Planning, 12 years; Dr. William B. Mather, 29 Linden Lane, Health Services, 31 years.

Also, Robert G. Millar, 1F Magie Apartments, Housing, 14 years; Robert A. CO-ORDINATOR NAMED

For Cross Town 62. Cross Town 62 will undergo both a change of co-ordinators and a change in the office hours effective Monday, the Princeton Jaycees, administrators of the service, have announced.

"It is with deep regret that we have accepted the departure of Sandy Rabinowitz, who has been the co-ordinator of the service since its inception in 1973," said Pat Kidd, chairman of the project for the Jaycees, "but the change is unavoidable, as Sandy will be going abroad with her husband who will be on sabbatical for the next year. She has made the service unique and viable within the towns, and is in no small way a reason for its success. We're sorry to see her go."

The Jaycees said that Martha Nielsen, a lifetime Princeton resident, has agreed to take on the responsibllities of the co-ordinator of Cross Town 62. Mrs. Nielsen has been involved in community services since her high school years here. There will also be a change in administrative hours during which reservations will be taken over the phone for rides. The new hours will be from 9 to noon. "This is a return to the original concept of the program when it was restarted last October," Ms. Kidd said, "but we were accepting calls pretty much all day to increase ridership and our availabiiity." The phone number, 924-6162, will remain the same, as will the 9 to 4 period during which rides will be given.

PLAYGROUNDS TO OPEN

Monday Morning. The Princeton Recreation Department summer playground program will begin Monday, offering a wide variety of activities for children 6 to 16. The eight-week session is free to any resident of the Borough or Township.

In addition to games and contests always in progress at each playground, an arts and crafts specialist will visit each area once a week. The program will include special events such as the playground olympics, the tournament of champions, and trips to Shea Stadium, Yankee Stadium and the Philadelphia Zoo.

Running until August 13, the program is operative Monday through Friday, 9 to noon and 1 to 4:30. The only exception is Marquand Park which is open from 10 to noon and 2 to 4. Both the John Street wading pool and the Miss Jessie Hurd (Pine Street) Wading Pool will remain open through August 27. The Hamilton Avenue playground will be open 9 to noon and 1 to 4:30 for very young children accompanied by parents. Because of the size of the Hamilton playground and the kind of equipment at this area, boys and girls over 8 years of age are encouraged to attend one of the larger playgrounds.

The 1976 Playground Staff.

Playground Supervisor, Larry Ivan; Community Park—Bruce Campbell, Dane Black, Eunice Copper, Roland Alexander; Erdman Avenue—Dorothea Zeler, David Duncan; Grover Park—Paul Mangiamele, Linda Federico, Hugette Johnston; Harrison Street—Bob Bruschi, Nancy White, Betsy Murphy; Littlebrook—Joe Moffo, Melissa Morse.

HI-FI DO-DADS.

Do Dad a favor and come to the Tech Hifi Father's Day Sale.

Tech Hifi has great gifts for Father's Day. This week you'll find special discounts on inexpensive do-dads like blank tape, cartridges, headphones, and record care kits.

And if you're getting together with other family members to buy Dad a really special gift this year (think of all the nice things he's done for you), you can also save money on complete music systems like these.

For only $269, you can get Dad a great system with Concord's popular CR210A am/fm stereo receiver. It has all the power he's ever likely to need, and delivers FM performance that compares with many receivers selling for much more! The ADC XT-6 2-way acoustic suspension loudspeakers provide tight bass response and very smooth highs. A dependable BSR 2260X automatic turntable with a base, dustcover and Shure M81SC magnetic cartridge complete the system.

CONCORD BSR 269

If you've managed to scrape together a little more money for Dad's present, consider this value-packed $399 system with the new Nikko 2025 am/fm stereo receiver, Ohm E loudspeakers and a BSR 2260X automatic turntable with a Shure M81SC magnetic cartridge.

The Nikko 2025 receiver boasts ultra-sophisticated electronic circuitry to deliver 10 watts minimum RMS per channel at 8 ohms from 40 to 20,000 Hz., with no more than 0.8% Total Harmonic Distortion. This is ample power to achieve room-filling volume levels with the efficient Ohm E 2-way (8-inch woofers, 2-inch tweeters) loudspeakers. And the BSR 2260X turntable equipped with a quality Shure magnetic cartridge will keep Dad's records sounding great play after play. It comes complete with a base and a dustcover.

NIKKO BSR Ohm 399

What better way to show Dad how much you all love him than with a really fine system like this one for $499 this week at Tech Hifi?

The am/fm stereo receiver is the Nikko 5055, with 25 watts minimum RMS per channel into 8 ohms from 20 to 20,000 Hz. and no more than 0.8% Total Harmonic Distortion. The loudspeakers are famous Microacoustics FRM-2's With their unique 5-tweeter high frequency array, these excellent loudspeakers provide uniform response throughout your entire listening area. The high performance Philips GA427 semi-automatic turntable boasts belt-drive and a low-speed 24-pole synchronous motor. It comes complete with an elegant base, a dustcover and an Audiotechnica AT 90E Dual Magnet cartridge. (If you're really nice to him, Dad may even let you play your own record on this great system.)

Medvin Will Be Missed:
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The sudden death of Councilman Murray Medvin was a great blow to all of Princeton. Murray was a good friend and strong supporter of the Quarry Park from the very beginning, privately encouraging us to keep fighting when the prospects for the park appeared dim and continually re-affirming his backing in public meetings of both the Planning Board and the Council.

He was a true believer in the strength of political organization at the grass roots level and by his enthusiasm and example demonstrated that government truly can be "by the people." We shall miss him.

Spirited Thanks To All.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The June Fete was the most "Spirited Fete" ever. Our heart-felt thanks to the legions of enthusiastic volunteers who gave of their time, talent and services. We are most grateful and appreciative. Fete day represents thousands of hours of effort and work for a most significant cause -- the Medical Center at Princeton.

To Princeton University for the use of their fields and their continued support and cooperation; to the surrounding municipalities; to the fire and police departments of Princeton Borough, Township and West Windsor Township; to the many educational institutions of the community for their service and equipment, particularly the Princeton Regional Schools; to the news media; to the hundreds of merchants and businessmen of the area; to the churches, service clubs, unions, adult and youth organizations; and to the Medical Center personnel – we give our special thanks. With your help the Fete was a star spangled success.

In closing, our most sincere thanks to TOWN TOPICS for its excellent coverage.

Parade a Success.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I wish to thank each person who helped in any way to make our Bicentennial Memorini Day parade and cemetery observances "Honoring The Defenders Of Freedom" the biggest occasion of its kind in Princeton's history.

Special thanks to Governor Brendon T. Byrne, the group of veterans who donned their original service uniforms, Mercer County American Legion Posts and their auxiliaries and members of other veterans groups for taking part.

It was a fine community effort and an honor to me to be a part of it.

Veteran's Day Parking.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of a letter that we have sent to the Mayor and Council of the Borough of Princeton.

Thank you for your March 5, 1976 reply to our letter of January 14, 1976 recommending that Veterans Day be declared a holiday at which time unlimited parking at the parking meters be permitted. You were concerned that if no parking meter tax were imposed on Veterans Day, certain motorists would take up spaces all day thereby depriving shoppers of needed spaces.

May we call your attention to the situation in the nearby cities of Trenton and New Brunswick, which have parking meters, yet observe Veterans Day as a holiday. Surely they must be concerned with motorists who might take up spaces all day.

As we see it, this is a question of public priorities. Is it more important to observe Veterans Day as a holiday in Princeton, or is it more important to concern ourselves with certain motorists who might take up certain parking spaces all day?

Veterans Day is an annual occasion when Americans in all walks of life take some time out of their daily activities to pay homage to those men and women who sacrificed their time and energy, and in some cases, their lives, to the defense of the United States of America in time of war.

Princeton is not particularly concerned about "certain motorists" on Memorial Day, Fourth of July, Labor Day, or

To Three Municipalities in Mercer, Grass In Hunterdon County Seems to Be Greener

Government officials in Hopewell Township, Hopewell Borough, and Pennington Borough are considering making an attempt to secede from Mercer County and become part of Hunterdon County, to which the three municipalities–known as Hopewell Valley–belonged prior to 1838.

Not nostalgia but a concern over today's high taxes has motivated the Hopewell Valley authorities, who argue that their municipalities receive a disproportionately small amount of services in return for their tax dollars.

In order to secede from the county, Hopewell and Pennington voters would have to pass a secession referendum, which the officials hope to have on the ballot in November. The state legislature would then have to approve the request, an action that at this time is considered unlikely.

Mercer County Executive Arthur Sypek said he would fight any attempt by the three municipalities to secede. Mercer County would lose about $3 million in taxes if the move were successful.

Hopewell Township Committeeman Christopher F. Bannister said he had received more than a dozen phone calls from residents supporting the idea.

'Fantastic People.' Officials in Hunterdon County were also enthusiastic. One freeholder, William W. Winter, said he thought the Hopewell Valley people "would probably fit in better with Hunterdon County politics and operations than they do in Mercer."

Assemblyman Walter E. Foran of Flemington added that Hopewell Valley residents are "fantastic people" and he would "love to have them" in Hunterdon County. The county's Bicentennial slogan is "Return to Hunterdon."

Volunteers Recognized.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

On Tuesday evening, June 15, this resolution was scheduled to come before the Board of Education for approval:

"Whereas a number of citizens have provided critical services to the children of this community by volunteering their time and talents and

"Whereas the Board of Education, on behalf of the community, wishes to recognize the contribution of these volunteers, now therefore be it

"Resolved that the Princeton Regional Board of Education acknowledges with thanks the foregoing efforts of those volunteers who have served in our school community."

It is my hope that the volunteers who have affected our school system this year in so many ways accept this expression of recognition for their invaluable service.

"Protect This Rare Isle."
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Last week's lead article, on the difficulty facing this community in adopting a comprehensive housing plan, pits the Princeton Regional Planning Board against those interested in protecting the land. It is, I believe, unseemly and inappropriate to help fan into a conflagration the differences of opinion that have developed among all those concerned for Princeton's future.

Certainly, the Planning Board has as much stake, if not more, in the environment as anyone else: they are its official guardians. And those who are fearful, if not critical, of the various aspects of the plans brought forward want above all the adoption of a reasonable and practical plan that will satisfy the new interpretation of the New Jersey state laws and hopefully avoid the architectural, social and ecological disasters that now surround us.

Nevertheless, one can only sympathize with the chairman and the members of the Planning Board when after more than five years of dedicated and detailed work, they are instructed from the floor "not to rush into this unprepared"!

Yet again, so much has been learned in the last five years about the animal, vegetable and mineral interrelatedness of the natural world that we should examine carefully not only the overall plans but also any specific development proposal. No factor in the decision is an isolate; we must consider them all.

When the Natural Resources Inventory becomes available, and before the sewer moratorium is lifted, perhaps some "don't's" could be adopted as a holding action until all aspects of this section of the Master Plan have been scrutinized. Even in America, buildings last a long time. We have all been looking at the backside of the Shopping Center for almost 25 years now.

Finally, I hope that in the public proceedings of the future each of us will recognize, first of all, the ultimate objective of the others: to protect this rare isle beset more and more by the stormy seas of change.

Future Growth Inevitable.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

What constructive end could possibly be served by the front-page headline of last week's Town Topics (June 10) – "Housing Proponents and Environmentalists to Clash as Residential Expansion Nears"? Future growth in Princeton is inevitable and a tough problem. It requires level heads, arduous probing and an understanding that solutions will be difficult at best.

The Planning Board and citizens will continue to do their extraordinarily difficult task. Local newspapers that serve the needs of a community are helpful only if they present an on-going fair discussion of different points of view. But journalism that sets any group against another in an adversary rather than mutually concerned way is simply irresponsible and destructive.

School Merger

school system as fresh, new, innovative. It had such advanced things as team teaching and an arrangement in the higher elementary grades whereby pupils progressed at their own speed.

Many Township residents felt that the high school to which their children inevitably went was inadequate. These parents wanted more course-offerings, more facilities, more educational advantages.

They wanted a stronger vocational program which the community could not afford by itself, and they felt that the Borough was hopelessly committed to helping only the college-bound students. Parents wanted a smooth, single progression from kindergarten through 12th grade, without the dislocation of moving into another system's high school.

Also, the Township was a growing, bursting municipality, with new houses sprouting like mushrooms. Merger with the Borough would be cheaper than building a separate Township High.

But the Borough was proudly conservative, proud of its long-standing status as one of the top school systems in the nation; proud of its brand-new John Witherspoon elementary school; above all, proud of its "Princeton Plan," known throughout the country for its solution to the problem of integration. The plan was simple: the Borough had two elementary schools. All children, white and Negro (everybody said "Negro" then, even Negroes) went to the Nassau Street School through fifth grade, then moved to the Quarry Street School for grades six through nine, then on to the high school.

Unrest in Borough. Also the Borough knew that when 1970 census figures were in, it would be a 5-4 minority on a regional board.

But many Borough residents, too, were restive. They felt their junior-high program was weak -- not enough kids to build a strong program. Not enough opportunity for guidance, reading specialists, science, art.

There were economic factors for the Borough, too. With merger, there would be a guaranteed "Princeton" population at the high school. The Borough's budget would be seriously dislocated if all the sending districts -- including the Township -- pulled out and the 300-odd Borough students were left to rattle around in the high school building.

(Incidentally, West Windsor-Plainsboro's new high school has a population today of 723 students; Montgomery's, 913 for a total of 1,636. Those growing communities were bound to leave Princeton High sooner or later; if they had remained, the building would have been too small.)

Eager for merger, the Township school board under president Marian Epstein and later, Richard Pearson, appointed a study committee.

"The board wanted a committee that would recommend merger, and we were being used for that purpose and we knew it," recalls one committee member, "but it was a good political move."

Bailey Committee. Herbert Bailey was chairman of the committee. Other members were Suzanne Fremon, vice-chairman, Max Blumenfeld, Mrs. Seymour Bogdanoff, Lester Chandler, Mrs. William H. Sword, Katherine Lyons, Simon Marcson, Glenn Miller Jr., Mrs. Donald Rugg, Frank C. Shoemaker, Mrs. Howard Sprout and James E. Ward. It was called the "Bailey" committee and in May, 1964, it issued its yellow-bound report recommending merger.

Meanwhile, a study was under way to find out whether the two Princetons should consolidate their municipal functions as well, and as part of that report, the two school systems joined in preparation of still another study -- a blue-bound report, in nice contrast to Mr. Bailey's yellow-bound one.

In this "Blue Book," the two school boards of March, 1965, recommended a merger of the two systems "in the best interests of the Princeton community."

Solemnly signed by all board members and the two superintendents -- Chester A. Stroup for the Borough, John McKenna for the Township -- the report was released and machinery set in motion for a fall referendum.

Then a Surprise. Without warning, a month after the report was issued, the Borough school board president, Graham Rohrer, held a surprise week-end press conference and announced his dissent from the report.

His action was so unexpected that a reporter, telephoning the Township board president, George Grace, for a comment, was firmly told that there must be some mistake: Mr. Rohrer was a signatory of the "Blue Book."

For the next six months -- until the October, 1965 referendum -- it was battle all the way.

One merger opponent wrote in TOWN TOPICS that those favoring merger were "fanatics."

"I would guess (the Township) aim is to re-shape Princeton into one big Community patterned on the order of a Kendall Park or a Levittown, but of course, somewhat more pretentious."

'Newcomer Eggheads.' It was said that Borough children would have to attend four separate schools between kindergarten and ninth grade. Borough taxpayers would have to finance more and more schools as the Township continued to grow. Negro children would have to be bused all over the community. Those who favored merger were deliberately concealing the fact that Princeton could regionalize its high school alone, keeping the rest of the systems separate.

The Borough would have to share its splendid new John Witherspoon School. People who wanted merger were newcomer eggheads. People who opposed merger were reactionaries. Both sides charged deviousness. Both sides charged vituperative anonymous telephone calls.

"How," asked Tristam B. Johnson, of the Borough, "can the man who serves you five days a week as a Princeton businessman, sits with you in Palmer Stadium Saturday and in church Sunday, suddenly become a three-eyed, two-headed horned toad just because he is a representative on the Township school board?"

A common theme was that Princeton was "one big family."

"If we're all in the same family," Orren Jack Turner observed tartly, "then we cannot marry."

Stunning Defeat. Before the October referendum, Thomas W. Benham of ORC directed a survey showing that 62 percent of all Borough residents favored merger. But when the votes were counted, the Borough had voted merger down -- 1,249 to 1,091. The Township's affirmative was a whomping 2,772 to 230.

Asked to explain his survey, Mr. Benham shook his head, "I really didn't think Princeton would accept these emotional approaches; maybe we have to re-evaluate this community."

"That defeat was a stunning shock," Mrs. Wagner recalls. "We just didn't get out and work the way the opposition did that summer."

And merger opponents had indeed worked that summer. Mr. and Mrs. Turner formed SOS -- "Save Our Schools" -- simply by gathering together people who had exchanged a word here and there at public meetings, and had found they had the same questions which, they felt, were not being answered.

"We were astounded at the response," Mrs. Turner remembers.

Another Committee. "Is merger dead?" TOWN TOPICS asked that fall and winter.

But in February, pro-merger forces in the Borough faced anti-merger forces in the school board election and when pro-merger candidates took the entire ticket, a second referendum seemed assured. It was an astonishing election -- about 50 percent of the electorate turned out, a remarkably high figure for a school board contest.

After election, the two school boards named still another study committee. Its report, called the Chandler Report after the group's chairman, Lester Chandler, also advised merger, although a Borough school board member, and merger opponent, Mrs. Bernice Miller, wrote that it "totally ignored" the Borough's problems.

And so it went, page after page, week after week. TOWN TOPICS supported merger throughout, warning in one editorial, "Some of us can hear the clock ticking....."

When a second referendum date was set, cries like "Railroading!" and "Capitulation to the Township!" echoed in the letters columns of the newspapers.

Echoes of a Civil War. After the June 21 results showed the Borough with 1,510 "yes" votes to 1,235 "no" and the Township with 2,296 "yes" against 196, the issue seemed settled. Conciliatory statements came from both sides but it was, in its way, a civil war -- neighbor against neighbor -- and Princeton's school battles today carry echoes of that long-ago war.

Why did the Borough turn around after the first referendum?

Mrs. Turner, today, thinks people said "What's the use?" and stayed home. She also thinks SOS may have lost ground when it became involved in the personalities of the February school election, and less involved with issues.

Merger supporters like Mrs. Wagner think voters just didn't understand the issues clearly in October.

Immediately after the referendum, the county named the new regional school board -- Princetoo's first. Its members were Harvey .othberg, Bonoie Wagner, Robert Lively, Thomas Moore and E. Frederick Laschever for the Borough; Suzanne Fremon, Charles Jaffin, Herbert Bailey and David Brodsky for the Township.

Remember Fluoridation? But that is another story. Princeton is never without its storms, but the 1965-66 storm was a bad one. Incidentally, while it was raging, there was another little cyclone right by its side If you were bored with school merger in 1965-66, you could take sides on this one: "Should Princeton fluoridate its water?"

"You may all take one Giant Step — Backward!"

EDITORIAL SUPPORT: TOWN TOPICS favored merger of Princeton's two school systems, publishing editorials and cartoons urging voters to approve the 1966 referendum. "S.O.S." stood for "Save Our Schools," the name of the anti-merger committee.

About That Precise Law...

"The law is very precise, indeed," TOWN TOPICS wrote with confidence in 1966, "No school board can change the 'per pupil' base (for sharing school costs between Borough and Township) without a community-wide referendum."

"But even more important, the law specifically states that a school district cannot go from a 'per pupil' to a 'ratcables' basis at all, so that 'per pupil' cost would remain the basic finahcing mechanism for the merged district."

20 ARE HONORED

For Long Service at ETS. Educational Testing Service honored 20 staff members who have been with it for 30, 25 and 20 years at its annual Service Recognition Dinner on Saturday.

Singled out for special recognition was Sara Matlack of Plainsboro, who has been associated with ETS and one of its three founding organizations, the College Entrance Examination Board, for 30 years. Celebrating 25 year anniversaries were Magdalene S. Johnson and Albert L. Hibbard of Princeton, Barbara Hillhouse of Kingston, and John E. Dobbin of Redington Beach, Florida.

Twenty year anniversaries were celebrated by 15 other staff members. They include Frances Ceraso, Ann King, Diana D. Lucas, Maywood Mach, Judith Malkiel, Adele Richey, Ann Smith and Jacquelyn Tchorni, all of Princeton.

Also honored for 20 years with ETS were Charlotte S. Farley of Princeton Junction, Foster H. Schoenthaler, Jr. of Pennington, Katherine Mulligan of Trenton, Louis Springsteen, Jr. of Hamilton Square, Nyda Kehoe of Cranbury, Jean Kerr of Jamesburg and Charles A. Zink of Flemington.

'75 LOSS INCURRED

By Systemedics. Describing 1975 as "an eventful and difficult year for Systemedics," company president William P. Krause reported that the firm, headquartered at the Princeton Air Research Park, incurred an operating loss of $36,216 in 1975 compared with an operating income of $277,159 in 1974.

Income after extraordinary items was four cents a share, compared to 23 cents a share in 1974.

Systemedics offers health care professionals management information systems which furnish regular reports of patient billing, accounts receivable, and other information and administrative advice for medical, dental, and veterinary offices.

Last year the company's operations were hampered by a tender offer made by several former employees of the firm's Jackson, Mississippi, office, and by the replacement of several employees in the western regional office, including two who were charged with improper conduct. The tender offer was unsuccessful and was withdrawn in November.

Mr. Krause reported that the lack of growth in sales ($4.39 million compared to $4.23 million the year before) was also due to management's decision to restructure the company and develop a national data network. The development projects will continue to require investments of revenue for several more years. "Significant increases in net income compared to 1974 are at least several years away," said Mr. Krause.

Sales Force Expanding. "With the traumas of 1975 behind us, we look forward with guarded optimism to 1976 and beyond. We continue to have a stable business -- more than 1,000 doctors and dentists offices serving patients in most states," he continued. "Over one half of our business is now sold and serviced through approximately 60 experienced franchisees and sales agents.

"We are expanding the franchise sales force and expect to add at least 12 new franchisees during 1976," he said.

MRS. JOHNSON NAMED

Travel Office Manager. The appointment of Virginia D. Johnson as manager of Revere Travel's Palmer Square office has been announced by Paul Townsend, vice president. Britt Palmer, former manager, has accepted a position with his father's insurance firm in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Johnson, with ten years experience in international travel sales, has been with the agency for three years. She was formerly manager of tour sales for Donald L. Ferguson, Ltd. She and her husband, Oliver S. Johnson, live at 559 Drakes Corner Road.

Revere was founded by Mr. Townsend's grandfather in 1922. The firm's offices are located in Trenton, Hamilton Square, at the Princeton University Store, and on Palmer Square.

NAMED VICE-PRESIDENT

Of Oxirane. Vincent A. Gorman, 337 Dodds Lane, has been named a vice-president of Oxirane International, a new headquarters organization responsible for coordinating worldwide activities of the Oxirane group. Oxirane International is equally owned by Atlantic Richfield and Halcon International, Inc. of New York. Its offices here are at 120 Alexander Street.

Mr. Gorman was vice-president and general counsel of Oxirane Corporation. He will continue to carry these responsibilities in the new organization.

CERTIFICATES AWARDED

For Workshop Participation. Century 21 Brokers Ken and Mary Ostheim have received certificates for the Industrial Development Course to "Sell New Jersey" and to bring employment and business to the Garden State.

The course and workshop were designed to inform planners, development commissions, chambers of commerce, and realtors of the programs available to encourage the growth of New Jersey's economy. The course was sponsored by the State Departments of Labor and Industry, Agriculture and Community Affairs and speakers for the two-day workshop included governmental personnel as well as representatives from industry. The seminar concluded with a dinner at the Ramada Inn at New Brunswick with the Commissioner of the Department of Labor and Industry, Joseph A. Hoffman, as speaker.

SCHOOLS BIG FACTOR

When Families Move. "The quality of schools is still the most important factor in a family's choice of one community over another when seeking a new home," says John T. Henderson of John T. Henderson, Inc.

"There are more than 500,000 job-related relocations of families each year in the United States," said Mr. Henderson, "and the largest number of these moves involve families with children."

There are 12 questions that home-seekers commonly ask about schools before a decision is made to locate in a community.

1. How do the schools rate on national achievement tests?
2. What is the pupil-teacher ratio?
3. What percentage of graduates go on to higher education?
4. How much does the school district spend per pupil?
5. What extra-curricular activities are offered to students, and are these activities broad-based or limited to team sports?
6. Are there programs offered for exceptional children?
7. To what extent does the community support its school referenda?
8. Is there a lunch program?
9. Are schools within walking distance, or is transportation provided where necessary?
10. How are schools organized -- K-8, junior high, middle school, senior high?
11. Is advanced education of the professional staff encouraged and rewarded?
12. To what extent are parents involved in school programs?

The Henderson firm can answer these questions for anyone in this community who may be making a move to another town, because they are in touch with other members of RELO in other communities.

RELO-Inter-City Relocation Service, of which Henderson is a member, is a nationwide, not-for-profit association of real estate firms which annually refer thousands of transferred families to fellow brokers throughout the country. RELO members in more than 8,000 communities help smooth out the problems of moving for families who must make a change from one city to another.

As soon as a family is in touch with a RELO member, the entire service is provided to them in the new city, with no obligation. A long distance phone call is made immediately to the RELO member in the new town and from there everything moves fast.

"Just as soon as we supply the information on the type of home and lifestyle desired, the RELO member begins to provide information on homes, financing, information packets about the community and its services. We save precious time for the family because they arrive in the new place with information they need and a friendly person to meet them at the airport. We arrange motel accommodations and even a sitter, if needed," said Mr. Henderson in explaining the RELO service.

YEARS OF SERVICE RECOGNIZED: Educational Testing Service staff members who have been with the organization for a quarter century or more are shown here with William W. Turnbull, ETS president (center). From left, John E. Dobbin, 25 years; Barbara Hillhouse, 25 years; Sara Matlack, 30 years with ETS and a founding organization; and Albert L. Hibbard, 25 years. Not present for the photo was Magdalene S. Johnson, another 25 year staff member.

Like all growing tissue, growing teeth need adequate amounts of protein, minerals, fats, and other food elements. These are obtained through the blood which supplies the pulp area of the tooth. If there is a limited or poor supply of food, the blood will take the necessary elements from other body tissues. It is therefore imperative that a balanced diet be provided for the proper growth of teeth. This is especially true of children. Whereas adults teeth no longer need calcium, the bone tissue which keeps the teeth in place must be supplied.

OBITUARIES

Harry H. Harman, 63, of 63 Caldwell Drive, director of Educational Testing Service's Developmental Research Division, died June 8 at Princeton Medical Center. An internationally recognized authority in the field of factor analysis, he was the author of Modern Factor Analysis.

Mr. Harman joined ETS as a senior research psychologist in 1966 and in 1973 became director of the organization's Developmental Research Division. Under his direction, the division carried out major research in early learning , in academic and vocational education and guidance, in higher education and in occupational and career development. Prior to that, he served as director of ETS' Office of Computation Sciences and as director of the Analytical Studies and Services Division.

Before joining ETS, Mr. Harman was on the staff of the System Development Corporation where he was named one of the Corporation's principal scientists. He also served as chief of the Statistical Research and Analysis Section in the Personnel Research Branch of the Department of the Army.

He was the author of several other books on psychological statistics and articles for a variety of professional journals. He acted as a consultant to the National Science Foundation, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the State of California, the Richardson Foundation, and New Jersey's Mercer County Community College. Mr. Harman was president of both the Psychometric Society and the Society of Multivariate Experimental Psychology, and a Fellow in the American Psychological Association.

Born in Poland, Mr. Harman was a graduate of the University of Chicago from which he also received a master's degree in mathematics.

He leaves his wife, Rose, and two sons, Alvin of Los Angeles, and Lawrence of Livermore, California.

Interment was in Los Angeles.

Bruce A. Johnson, 27, director of the Museum of American Folk Art in New York City, was killed June 5 in a motorcycle accident near Peekskill, N.Y. He lived in Manhattan.

Born in New York City, he graduated from Princeton Country Day School and Princeton High School and from Wesleyan University in 1971. After graduation he began his career at the museum as assistant to the director and was named director in 1974.

Mr. Johnson concentrated his efforts at the museum to improving attendance at the four shows held annually covering American folk paintings, sculpture, and decorative arts of the 18th, 19th and 20th centuries. He also expanded the publishing activities of the museum and wrote two catalogue books, "Calligraphy: Why Not Learn to Write," published in 1974, and "The American Catalogue," for this winter's cat show. At his death he was working on a book for Harcourt & Brace called "A Child's Comfort: Baby and Doll Quilts."

Mr. Johnson lectured on folk art at the Brooklyn, Metropolitan and Shelbourne Museums and at the New York Gallery Association and Hofstra University. He was a member of the advisory board of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, trustee of the United States Bicentennial Society and consultant to the Georgia State Council on the Arts. He was also a candidate for trustee of Wesleyan University.

He is survived by his mother, Barbara, and his father J. Seward Johnson, both of Princeton; his sister, Jeniah, of Princeton and Nantucket, Mass.

A memorial service was held in the Princeton University Chapel, Dean Ernest Gordon officiating. In lieu of flowers it is requested that contributions be sent in his memory to the Museum of American Folk Art, 49 West 53rd Street, New York.

Mrs. Mary G. Hitti, 79, of 144 Prospect Avenue, died June 9 in the Merwick Unit of Princeton Medical Center,.

Born in Waterbury, Conn., Mrs. Hitti lived in Princeton since 1926. She attended Teachers College of Columbia University. She traveled extensively with her husband, Dr. Philip K. Hitti, professor emeritus of Near Eastern Studies at Princeton University and also served as his research assistant and cartographer for his numerous works on Near Eastern history. She was a member of the Present Day Club and the Women's College Club.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Viola Winder of Princeton; a grandson, Philip Winder; two brothers, Richard George of Palm Beach, Fla., and Howard George of Nashville, Tenn.

The funeral and burial was private. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

John F. Stonaker, 66, of 218 Washington Road, died June 8 in Princeton Medical Center. A lifelong resident of Princeton, educated in its school system, he retired in 1974 as superintendent of grounds and buildings at RCA after 23 years.

News Of The CHURCHES

TO TALK ON PURPOSE

In Sermon Sunday. Dr. John M. Mulder, Assistant Professor of American Church History at Princeton Theological Seminary and Assistant Editor of "Theology Today" will be the guest preacher at Nassau Presbyterian Church, Palmer Square Sanctuary, Sunday at 10. His sermon topic will be "Toward Recovering a Sense of National Purpose."

Dr. Mulder was educated at Hope College in Michigan, Princeton Theological Seminary, and Princeton University, where he received his doctorate in American history. He organized a seminar on religion and the Revolution co-sponsored by Rider College and Princeton Theological Seminary which was held last July at the Seminary and will be held again this year from July 19-30.

RUMMAGE SALE SET

By Nassau Church Youth. The Senior High Fellowship of Nassau Presbyterian Church will sponsor a rummage sale on Saturday, from 10 until 4 on the front lawn of the Chambers Street building. A variety of items from furniture to games will be offered for sale.

The proceeds will be donated to a specific project in the area of hunger or disaster relief. In case of rain, the sale will be held in the basement of the Chambers Street building.

Donations are being collected in the basement coat room of the Chambers Street building weekday mornings.

WORKSHOP SET

In Catholic Liturgy. A one-day liturgy workshop will be held Monday at Our Lady of Princeton Convent, Great Road and Drake's Corner Road. Speakers for the day will include Father Lucien Deiss, French liturgist, author and composer, and Mrs. Gloria Weyman, author, dance and choreographer.

The workshop is not exclusively intended for the professional liturgist but will have an appeal to any parishioner interested in deepening his or her understanding of the Mass. The program will begin at 9 and will conclude with the celebration of Mass at 5. The registration fee of $15 includes copies of Father Deiss' books, workshop materials and luncheon.

Information may be obtained by calling 587-4600.

BULLETIN NOTES

Through the summer the Lutheran Church of the Messiah, Nassau Street and Cedar Lane, will hold one worship service each Sunday at 10. Communion will be celebrated on the first, third, and fifth Sundays of each month, and there will be a coffee hour after the service each week. Allen A. Gartner is pastor.

At the United Methodist Church, Nassau Street and Vandeventer Avenue, starting this Sunday church will begin at 10 instead of 11, and nursery care will be provided each Sunday morning.

The First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck will have a special musical presentation by the Princeton Cantata Ensemble at Sunday's 9:30 a.m. worship hour. Members of the Ensemble will perform music written for the Second Sunday in Trinity from Cantata number 76 by Johann Sebastian Bach. The group is directed by George Jones and features Anne Hoffman of Princeton as soprano soloist.

The public is invited.

HANDS ACROSS THE SEA

From Original Maidenhead. Lawrence Township will be host to a Bicentennial visitor from Maidenhead, England, this weekend, according to an announcement by Mayor Herman W. Hanssler.

For 120 years, until 1816, Lawrence Township was known as Maidenhead, having been named after the English community, situated on the Thames River, 20 miles from London. Over the years a number of officials and Township citizens have had contacts with the English town.

Mrs. Euphemia Underhill, the last mayor of Maidenhead, will visit Lawrence Township to extend greetings. In 1974 Maidenhead and four other communities were combined into the Royal Borough of Windsor and Maidenhead.

Councillor Underhill, who continued as a member of the governing body, was re-elected to a four-year term of office. She will be accompanied by her husband, retired Commander Lewis Underhill of the British Navy.

Mayor Hanssler has convened a meeting of the Lawrence Township Committee for 10:30 a.m. Saturday to greet Mrs. Underhill. He urges the Lawrence community to attend and join in extending a friendly greeting to the Bicentennial visitor.

Among the activities planned for the British municipal official is a luncheon on Saturday, hosted by Rider College, a tour of the area, a gathering on Saturday evening at the Lawrence Neighborhood Center, including a visit to the Eggerts Crossing Village, housing project.

The Underhills will attend services at the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning. Mrs. Underhill has accepted the Rev. Dana Fearon's invitation to deliver brief remarks at the service.

The service will be followed by a luncheon with Township officials and Lawrence residents, all as guests of the Trustees of The Lawrenceville School. On Sunday evening Councilman Lloyd A. Carver and Mrs. Carver will host a farewell gathering to the Underhills at their Tall Timbers Drive home.

Plans for the Bicentennial visitor were arranged by the Lawrence Historic and Aesthetic Commission with Robert B. Immordino acting as coordinator.

TO CHARGE FEES

For Swimming Lessons. The Recreation Department will hold an instructional swimming program at Community Park Pool for the summer season. This year, a nominal fee of $4 for the first child and $2 for each additional child will be charged for participation in each four-week session.

The instructional format will remain identical to that of last year. An evaluation session will take place on Friday and Saturday from 9:30 - 11:30 at Community Park Pool. Children 6 or over may come to the pool with bathing suit in order to be properly placed in a class.

The classes will be held Monday to Friday between 10 and 12 for approximately 40 minutes each and will from beginner through intermediate. A basic rescue and water safety course and advanced lifeguarding may be taught at a later date. The first session will begin on June 21 and end on July 16, the second session will begin on July 25 and run through August 20.

Those interested in joining the first session should report to Room 211, Valley Road School, in order to pay the appropriate instructional fee. Checks should be made payable to Princeton Recreation Department. For additional information, call 921-9480.

FUTURE TIGER: William H. von Oehsen III has been named the first recipient of a Princeton Area Alumni Association Scholarship. A 1976 graduate of Princeton Day School, he will enter Princeton University in the fall. (See story on Page 12B) (Bob Bielk phhoto.)

PECANS PROFITABLE

For Smith Club. Adrienne Snyderman and Debbie Pierson, chairman of this year's Smith Club Pecan Drive, have announced that approximately $4,000 was realized from pecan sales in Princeton and the surrounding area last fall. Proceeds benefit the Smith College Scholarship Fund.

Gratified by the results from the sale, which was a first for the Smith Club and replaced an auction of many years' standing, the chairmen have announced the sale will be held again this fall.

SIGN THE DECLARATION

Residents are Urged. Borough and Township residents are urged to go to their respective municipal halls to add their names to the "New Jersey Declaration" which will go on display July 2 in Trenton with the opening of a special Bicentennial exhibition in the Archives Room of the State Library. Prepared by the New Jersey Bicentennial Celebration Commission, the document reaffirms the citizens' allegiance to the basic ideals of the Declaration of Independence and vows continued support for the principles upon which the country was founded.

Governor Brendan T. Byrne has signed the "New Jersey Declaration" and copies were then sent to the mayors of every municipality and the freeholder boards of every county to be put on display and be signed by the public. Copies are readily available on the counter in the administrator's office in each municipality.

In recognition of the fact that New Jersey passed its own State Constitution and declaration of independence two days before the signing of the Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia, the New Jersey Bicentennial Commission has announced a number of events to take place in Trenton on Friday, July 2, to start the long July 4th weekend.

The events will mark the 200th anniversary of the action of the Provincial Congress of New Jersey on July 2, 1776. Asserting that King George III had broken his compact with the people of New Jersey and that it was necessary to preserve order and unity, the Provincial Congress declared independence from England and adopted the Constitution of New Jersey.

To commemorate that historic milestone, the major event of July 2 will be the public unveiling of copies of the "New Jersey Declaration" that have been returned from all over the State with the signatures of thousands of New Jersey residents. The loading of a Bicentennial "time capsule" also will take place.

FOUR GRADUATE

From Parachuting Course. An unusual graduation was held June 5, as four graduates of the YMCA's Sport Parachuting course climbed out on the wheel of a Cessna 205, 3,000 feet above the Brulington County Airplort, and leaped into space to earn their diplomas and logbooks in a space-age departure from the Y's traditional programs.

The four students, Art Liese, President of Collins Associates, the Princeton-based architectural firm; and Alan Bogdonoff, Avi Birk and Bob Durham of the Forrestal Campus of Princeton University, attended a two-hour orientation at the Y on Wednesday prior to their jump.

Instructor Doug Angel provided the theory behind aircraft exits, parachute landing falls, steering the parachute, and emergency procedures, or, what to do in case your main chute fails to open properly. After two more hours of outdoor training at the airnort on Saturday the fledgling jumpers earned their wings, all landing within a few feeet of the target.

The sports parachuting program will continue with orientation meetings each Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. at the Y during the summer months. The pre-jump instruction and jump will be conducted the following Saturday mornings at the airport.

On Wednesday, June 30, and Wednesday, August 4, at 9 p.m., Doug Angel will show films and give a lecture on the sport for any who wish more information.

YWCA PLANS COURSE

On Vegetable Canning. Now that summer is here and gardens are planted with fresh vegetables, the YWCA is planning a one-day course on how to freeze and can vegetables that can be enjoyed all year long.

Representatives from the Mercer County Extension Service will be leading an illustrated discussion on freezing and canning as well as food preservation at the YWCA this Monday, at 9:30 a.m. and again at 7:30 p.m.

Open to the public, the program is being offered at no fee. Nursery facilities are available for the morning session for children one year old and up. For more information, call the YWCA at 924-4825 ext. 22.

DR. GOHEEN NAMED

To Head Negro College Fund. Robert F. Goheen, chairman and chief executive officer of the council on Foundations, and president-emeritus of Princeton University, has been named chairman of the United Negro College Fund's 1976 Campaign for the Princeton Area. He succeeds Lee Hastings Bristol who headed the campaign for the past two years.

Dr. Goheen, in accepting the appointment, said "these 41 UNCF colleges perform a critical function these days out of all proportion to their size or resources."

Dr. Goheen served as President of Princeton from 1957 to 1972. He has been a member of the Board of the Rockefeller Foundation since 1963, of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching since 1960, a regent of the Smithsonian Institution since 1973, and since November, 1974, co-chairman of the Subcommission on Education and Culture of the Indo-U.S. Joint Commission for Cooperation.

The UNCF is a non-profit fund-raising organization which raises money to help 41 private, predominantly black member colleges. The national goal this year is $15 million.

RECEIVES AWARD

From Fire Auxiliary. Jane Toole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Toole of 91 Moore Street, is the recipient of the annual scholarship award presented by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Hook and Ladder Fire Company. A graduate on Monday of Princeton High School, she will attend Mercer County Vocational Technical School.

Mrs. Jack O'Neill, president, and Mrs. George B. Rollings Jr., scholarship chairman, presented the award which is given annually to every son or daughter of an auxiliary member who intends to further his education upon graduation from high school.

BUS TRIP, FILM SET

By Youth Center. The Children's Theatre of the Princeton Youth Center will sponsor a bus trip Saturday to the "Harriet Tubman Puppet Show" at the Billie Holiday Theatre in New York. The bus will leave from the Youth Center, 102 Witherspoon Street at noon and return at approximately 7 p.m.

Tickets are $3 for adults, $2 for children under 12. For reservations call the Youth Center at 924-0996 between 9 and 5.

The Youth Center will present the second of a series of free movies Thursday, June 24. An introduction to the Black History workshop, the movie will be "Oh Freedom."

SUNSHINE BRIGHT and NEW to LIGHT!

Simple facts should sell this NEW LIGHT LISTING fast! Therefore -- it is: a 1954 brick and frame ranch built by one of Princeton's most reputable builders, Harold Pearson, in 1976 condition. It has: entry hall, large living room with fireplace and bay window, eat-in kitchen, separate dining room, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, full basement with 2 finished rooms, work & utility area, attached garage, plaster walls, hardwood floors, and a furnace humidifier That should be enough to convince you what a good buy this house is, but we'll add a bit more just for good measure -- the house is in a convenient location for school and shopping, on a very pretty nicely landscaped and well-treed Township lot, and it cost only $286 13 to heat last year! Now for the price, a budget-pleasing $69,000!

EXCITING NEWS ABOUT AN EXCITING HOUSE!

The owners are now really interested in selling this northwest Township contemporary! A Robert Hillier design with the well-known architect's unique touches throughout, the 4 bedroom, 2½ bath has a setting to match -- secluded, rockstrewn, beautifully wooded Stunning living & dining rooms, kitchen-play-breakfast room, den, upstairs sitting room and numerous extras like burglar-fire alarm, central air, central vacuum etc., make the house as efficient to live in as it is intriguing to look at. Offers now invited on $180,000!

NEW LIGHT LAND LISTING! Eight wooded acres in fine area of Princeton Township Water & sewer available when moratorium is over. Call us for details

A LITTLE HOUSE NEAR KINGSTON TOWN

We hate to think how much more this far-bigger-than-it-looks NEW LIGHT LISTING would sell for in "Princeton Town." The living space consists of panelled living room with exposed beams and brick fireplace wall flanked by bookshelves, dining room, delightful panelled and beamed kitchen with wide "plant window", fine big first floor master bedroom and bath, two second floor bedrooms (one is large, lovely & a potential apartment) plus bath, and sizeable laundry/mud room -- all in apple pie order and full of appeal. The same goes for the grounds -- a delightfully pastoral setting with gorgeous trees, lush "bird-cover", stone patio, and a fine fenced filtered swimming pool, complete with flagstone terrace and cabana. See what we mean about the price of $52,500?

SENSATIONAL SETTING, COMFORTABLE CONTEMPORARY and a tennis court too! 7 bedrooms, 5½ baths, impressive living room, library, good kitchen -- all in a layout planned for comfort, efficiency and generational privacy This is really one of a kind Now available for $215,000!

WHO WANTS PRINCETON CUSTOMERS?
Some business firms do and some don't these days. How to find the ones that do? 1400 of them, both out of town and local - offer you their services through the Classified pages of your Princeton Community Phone Book.

Duraclean's over 2000 dealers warn you against steaming, scrubbing and soaking methods of cleaning your carpets and upholstery.
Have them hand cleaned with the

Duraclean®

Foam-Absorption Process

Your expensive investment in carpets, oriental rugs and upholstery deserves the gentle foam that absorbs din that other methods can't dislodge. Then the skilled hands of Duraclean specialists sponge it away. No false claims - just a thorough cleaning. Guaranteed by the Parents Magazine Seal and certified by American Research and Testing Laboratories. No other method or process can offer these credentials.

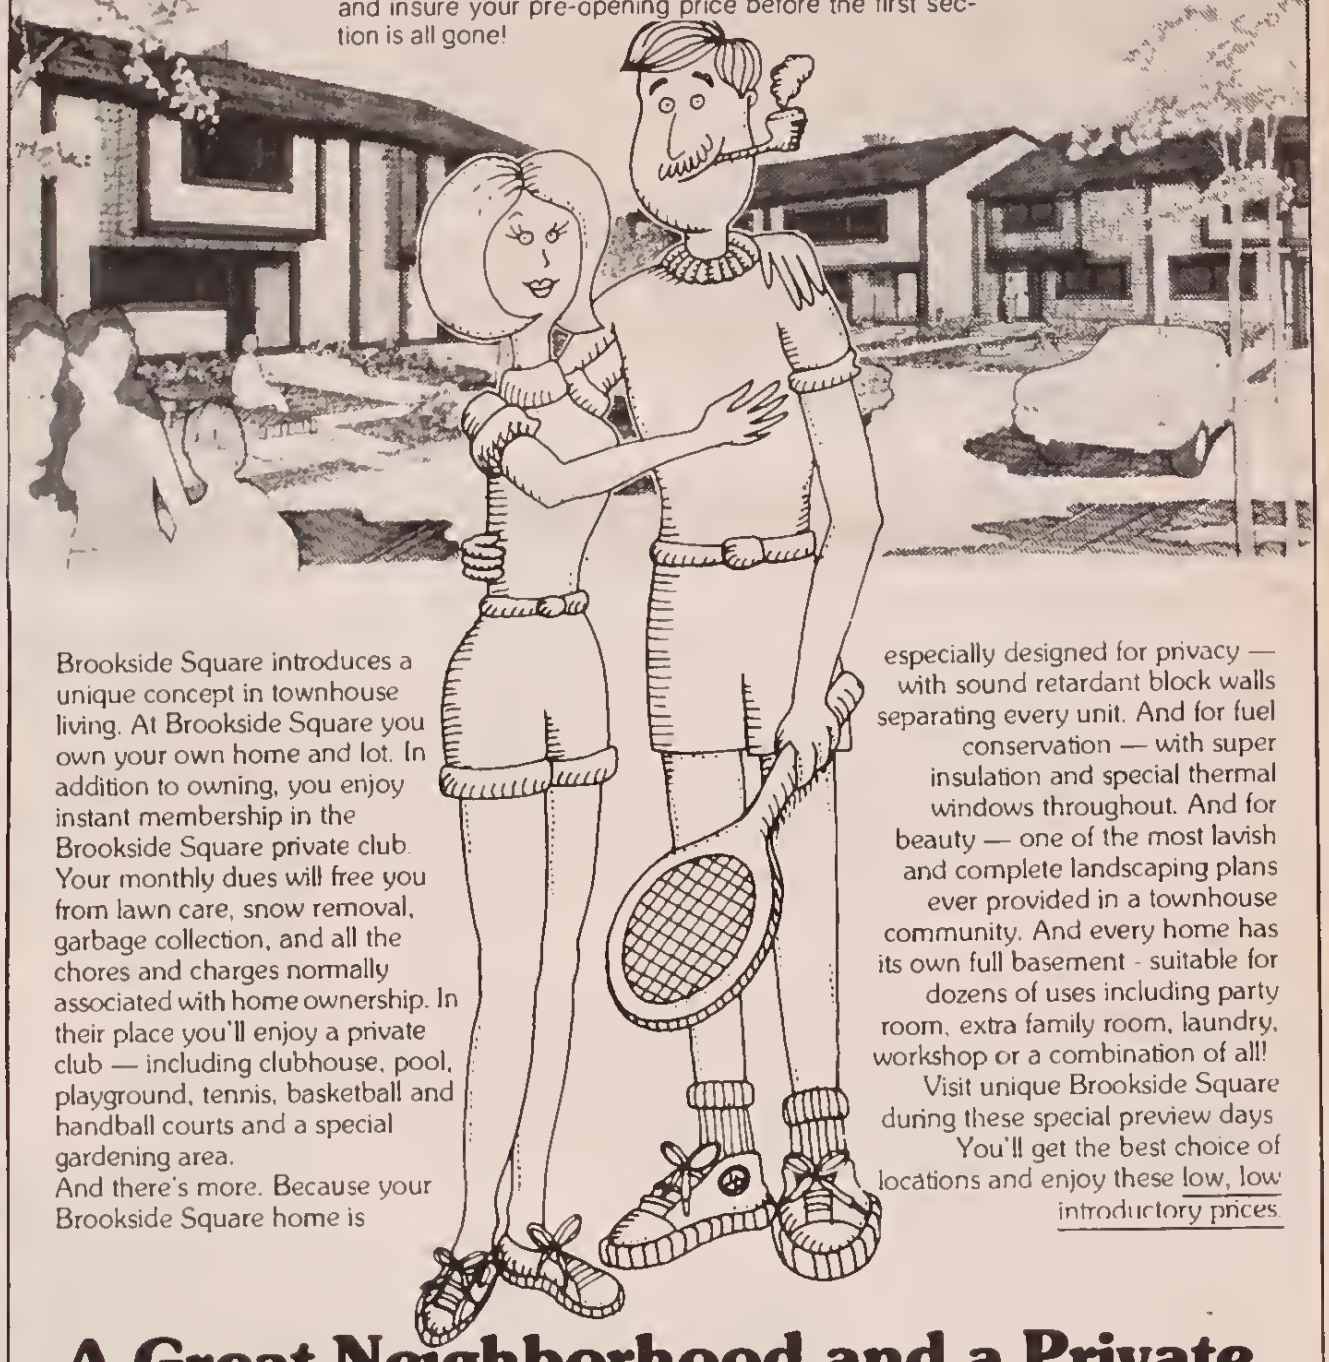
Sneak Previewing!

We were in the midst of preparing for a July Grand Opening when homebuyers began descending on us from all directions! So far 25 of our new townhomes have been sold and we're not even half prepared to show them. So we're inviting you to sneak preview this extraordinary new community this week, pick your lot and insure your pre-opening price before the first section is all gone!



Brookside Square introduces a unique concept in townhouse living. At Brookside Square you own your own home and lot. In addition to owning, you enjoy instant membership in the Brookside Square private club. Your monthly dues will free you from lawn care, snow removal, garbage collection, and all the chores and charges normally associated with home ownership. In their place you'll enjoy a private club — including clubhouse, pool, playground, tennis, basketball and handball courts and a special gardening area.
And there's more. Because your Brookside Square home is especially designed for privacy — with sound retardant block walls separating every unit. And for fuel conservation — with super insulation and special thermal windows throughout. And for beauty — one of the most lavish and complete landscaping plans ever provided in a townhouse community. And every home has its own full basement - suitable for dozens of uses including party room, extra family room, laundry, workshop or a combination of all!
Visit unique Brookside Square during these special preview days. You'll get the best choice of locations and enjoy these low, low introductory prices.

NOTICE

In compliance with a ruling of the State Supreme Court, all newspapers must ascertain that employment ads do not discriminate between sexes.

For example, titles such as "Salesman," "Nurse" and "Girl Friday," should be replaced, respectively, by "Salesperson," "Nurse (M/W)" and "General Office Work M/W". TOWN TOPICS has a copy of the Division of Civil Rights booklet, "A Guide for Employers to the New Jersey Law against Discrimination," and will provide assistance in the wording of all such ads upon request. Advertisers' cooperation is sought in meeting the requirements of the law.

A COUNTRY SCENE in the rolling hills near Neshanic one hundred six acres of fine farm land and some forest with more than two thousand feet of river frontage. The house is an early 19th century Colonial now restored and modernized with lots of excellent living space. Two living rooms, separate dining room, family room with fireplace, modern kitchen, and breakfast area. On the second floor, a master bedroom, dressing room, and bath, two other bedrooms, sewing room or fourth bedroom, laundry. Screen porch. Three-car garage, huge dairy barn, silo, etc. Lovely pond. Large assumable Land Bank mortgage to a qualified buyer. $350,000

OPEN WIDE AND SAY "AH" when you see this immaculate Shady Brook Colonial. Huge "L" shaped living room with fireplace (as large as the normal living room and dining room) separate dining room 13½ x 17½ feet, family room, large eat-in kitchen, lavatory. Four exceptionally good bedrooms, two tile baths on second floor. Covered patio with gas grille overlooks almost an acre of manicured lawn. Two-car garage, full basement. In the Littlebrook school district and easy walking distance to New York and local buses. $112,000

A CHARMING COUNTRY RETREAT with strong investment potential. Located north of Hopewell on 79 acres of varied woods and meadows with long road frontages. Completely private at the end of a long driveway is a unique 1840 stone and brick Colonial guarded at the front by a tall hedge (which baffled our photographers and hence no picture). On the first floor, in addition to the traditional living and dining rooms, there is a most comfortable, informal kitchen, family room with fireplace, plus a master bedroom and bath. Upstairs, two more bedrooms and bath. Screened porch, large terrace with fireplace and outbuildings include a heated three-story barn with large studio or guest quarters with walk-in fireplace and half bath; smoke house; three-car garage. $400,000

A SUPERB OFFERING ... WINFIELD DRIVE ... one of Hunt & Augustine's most impressive colonials ... on almost three acres of prime Princeton land .. with all city utilities, and just a short jog to town! Perfect center hall colonial with gracious living room and fireplace, dining room with chairrail, panelled family room with fireplace, jalousied sun room leading to an inviting deck in the yard, and a warm, spacious kitchen with breakfast area and utility room ... all to complete the first floor! Two master suites with full baths, and three other bedrooms and a hall bath are upstairs. Of course, there is a large attic and basement, with a two-car garage and central air conditioning. More to be sure, but please call for an appointment to see this exceptional house. $185,000

JUST WHAT THE DOCTOR ORDERED! Here's a prescription for just about the most fun-filled summer anyone could spend in Princeton. Take one four-bedroom, 2½ bath colonial on a great street for kids, mix it with a pool and patio area in the back that is absolutely unsurpassed, add central air conditioning, a great children's playroom and you have a house to take care of all your ills! The Littlebrook school district doesn't hurt either! Please call to see this house before it is on the market very long!

HOW ABOUT THREE BEDROOMS ON THE CANAL? Here is just about the neatest, most private house that you'll ever find right on the canal. It has everything – beautiful "open" Florida room, living room with fireplace, lovely dining room and kitchen, three bedrooms and two full baths. Even a two-car garage. And there's extra land available, too. This nifty cottage is the last house on the end of Canal Road. Like to fish, canoe, or just enjoy the beautiful peace and quiet. This is for you. $65,000

IN AN EXCELLENT PRINCETON LOCATION...not far from Littlebrook...a well-designed colonial built by and for a builder with four or five bedrooms and 2½ baths. Featuring a large sunken living room and an unusually shaped family room – both with attractive fireplaces. A booklined study for quiet contemplation, central air condition, aluminum siding and a pretty yard add more value to this lovely listing. $119,000

SUMMER INTIME READY

With Cabaret, Films. "The Big Reward," a cabaret-style comedy, opens Thursday at Summer Intime.

Written by Brian O'Connor and Rosemary Foley, the play was produced this season in New York at the Theatre of the Riverside Church. Co-author Foley was a member of the original Second City Company in Chicagn which was the first theater group in the country to develop improvisation into an art form in the theatre.

The play will be performed by the New Moon Theater Company, an off-Broadway group. Songs, dance, and comedy are combined in this light-hearted celebration nf youth.

It will play at Murray Theatre on the University campus Thursday through Saturday at 8:30, and Sunday at 2:30. Call 452-8181 for reservations.

Summer Intime's 1976 Film Series open Monday with "Holiday," a romantic comedy about life among the rich starring Katherine Hepburn and Cary Grant. On Tuesday, SI will present "Advise and Consent." Henry Fonda, Charles Laughton, and Gene Tierney star in this film adaptation of the Pulitzer prize-winning novel about political intrigue. Next Wednesday's offering is "Dinner at Eight" with Jean Harlow, Lionel Barrymore, and Wallace Beery.

All films in the Summer Intime Film Series begin at 7:30. Admission is $1.50. The first three films in the series will be held in Murray Theatre - all other films will be shown in McCormick Art Museum, directly behind Murray Theatre.

Subscriptions to the Summer Intime Film Series, as well as the Drama and Cabaret Series are available at the Summer Intime box office. Box Office hours are 10 a.m. - 8 p.m. Monday through Friday, 1 p.m. - 7 p.m. on Sunday.

10 WEEK SEASON STARTS

Cabaret Opens Friday. The Inn Cabaret, the weekly musical and comedy revue that played to large crowds last summer and fall at the Nassau Inn, will return for a ten-week season starting Friday. The Cabaret will perform Fridays through August 20 at 8:30 and 10:30 in the Prince William Room.

Each hour-long show typically contais an opening and closing number choreographed by Joan Morton Lucas and an installment of "Great Works of Literature Set to Music," a parody of some cliched work of literature which proved to be one of last year's most popular features. In addition, individual performers sing, dance and take part in comedy sketches furnished by various writers. Since the cast changes each week, the main ingredient of the shows in variety.

In the opening show Friday the cast includes several faces familiar to Cabaret audiences as well as some new performers selected from this spring's auditions. Newcomers Herb Hunsberger and Chris Harshorne will join Cabaret veterans Liz Fillo, Rita McDowell, Reid White, Susie Bertin and Diana Crane in selections from "Applause" and "Guys and Dolls," among others. At the piano will be Peter Wright, with Steve Fillo on bass and director Dan Berkowitz as master of ceremonies.

Reservations, which are recommended, may be made by phoning 924-6300 Monday through Thursday and will be held until 15 minutes before show time. The doors open a half hour before each show, and a cash bar is available throughout the performance.

CONTRALTO TO SING

In Westminster Recital. Maureen Forrester, who has become a legendary contralto on five continents through her performances in opera, concert, with orchestras, and on recordings, will open Westminster's Festival of Art Song Recitals this Sunday, at 8 p.m., in Bristol Chapel.

Accompanied by Pianist John Newmark, Miss Forrester will perform music of C.P.E. Bach, J.W. Frank, the "Five Songs for Mathilde Wesendonk" of Richard Wagner, "Frauen-Liebe und Leben" of Robert Schumann, and 10 songs from the "Italienisches Liederbuch" of Hugo Wolf.

Her recent engagements include appearances with the Cleveland Orchestra at the Blossom Festival, the Boston Symphony at Tanglewood, and a series of recitals and Master Classes in Aspen, Colorado. Her debut at the Met took place in February, 1975, when she sang Erda in "Das Rheingold," and subsequently in "Siegfried."

Other performers in the Westminster Festival, continuing nightly through Thursday, include Baritone Martial Singher (Monday), Soprano Susan Devanney Wyner (Tuesday), Tenor George Shirley (Wednesday), and American Composer Ned Rorem, accompanying a recital of his songs with Soprano Judith Nicosia and Baritone Bruce Fifer (Thursday).

Tickets for all five evenings will be sold at the door for $4.50, in Bristol Chapel on the Westminster Campus.

CAST OF 16[illegible]UGHT

For Street Theatre. Auditions for Princeton Street Theatre's major three-act play, "4 on a Garden" will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at 7 in the Dorothea House, 120 John Street, at the corner of Avalon Place. A cast of ten young actors and six young actresses is needed for this comedy, performed on the mobile stage at various sites around Princeton. It will be directed by Debbie Bellow of Street Theatre.

Technicians willing to do backstage and construction work are also needed. If interested, sign up at the general auditions.

Additionally musicians – especially guitarists – are needed for the children's show production this summer, "Fractured Fairy Fables." Auditions will be held June 29 and 30 at Dorothea House.

Workshops Scheduled. Street Theatre will also offer a series of six one-week workshops running from June 28 through August 6. They will cover movement and mime, voice, dance, silkscreen and poster design and improvisation.

Workshops will meet from 10 to noon Monday through Friday at Dorothea House, 120 John Street. Enrollment is limited and students are urged to sign up as soon as possible; registration and information sheets are available at schools, Dorothea House or by calling Street Theatre's Executive Director Francia White at 466-2483 or Producing Director Debbie Bellow at 921-8826.

Students in seventh grade this fall through college age may join any or all of Street Theatre's activities, including

OPERA GROUP PERFORMS

At Washington Crossing. One of the most famous operattas by Victor Herbert, "Naughty Marietta," will be presented by the Princeton Opera Association at the Open Air Theatre in Washington Crossing State Park Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week and next. Curtain time is 8:30.

This is a musical romance about an Italian heiress who, having run away to 18th century New Orleans, disguises herself as a boy and otherwise departs from proper aristocratic behavior. She breaks the hearts of two men and finally marries an American captain -- all to the accompaniment of some of Victor Herbert's most unforgettable melodies, such as "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "Neath the Southern Moon," "The Italian Street Song," and "I'm Falling in Love with Someone," Eleanor Clark of New York City and Pamela Boodley of Trenton will share the title of Marietta, the nobleman's fugitive daughter. John Woodard of Trenton and Robert Mitchell of New York City will alternate in the role of Captain Richard Warrington, an 18th century frontiersman. Mr. Woodard is soloist with All Saints Episcopal Church in Princeton.

Steve Owen of Princeton, a graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary, will appear as Etienne, the villian of the piece. He is the elegant son of Louisiana's Lieutenant-Governor but also leads a double life as a notorious pirate who has been terrorizing the Gulf Coast. Owen has appeared in several Princeton Opera Association productions and has performed as guest soloist with the Princeton University Glee Club and the Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs.

Marthe Rowen of Rocky Hill has the role of Adah, the quadroom slave girl who is attached to the piratical Etienne. Ms. Rowen, a graduate of Princeton University, has appeared with many area productions.

Chorus of Twenty. Edward Miller of Princeton, portraying Silas Slick, studied theatre in Sion, Switzerland, at the University of New World. He has had previous experience with Dance Co-Op of Princeton. The role of Rudolpho will be sung by Walter MacNicoll of Trenton.

Mary Alice Witte of East Windsor plays Lizette, and the role of the Lieutenant-Governor is performed by Warren Raymond of Trenton. Ms. Witte has appeared in productions of PJ & B and the Princeton Opera Association.

Mr. Raymond, president of the Pennington Players, is advertising manager of the Trentonian and a staff member of the Nassau Broadcasting Company.

There will be a chorus of 20 members, and music accompaniment using two pianos. Co-producers are Julia Blocksma of New Hope and Douglas Robertson of Princeton. The picturesque old New Orleans costumes are coordinated by Marilyn Shanfield of Princeton, set disigner is Elizabeth Meredith of Hopewell, and dances are choreographed by Renita D'Ippolito of Princeton.

Tickets are available at the door after 4 on performance dates, at $2.50 for adults and $1 for children.

PUPILS IN RECITAL

On Sunday. The piano pupils of Roger P. Turney gave a recital at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Wojciechowicz on Herrontown Road on Sunday. Participating were Deborah Baer, Deborah and Pamela Greeno, Ursula Knorr, Julie, Michele and Stephanie Samaroo, Peter Sparhawk, Jr., Katherine and Susan Wojciechowicz.

RECITAL HELD

At Keyboard Arts Studio. S.O.M.E. M.O.B. (also known as the Surviving Original Members of the Experimental Method for Older Beginners) gave their fourth annual piano recital Thursday at the Keyboard Arts studio in Princeton. The performers were Mrs. Jean Costa, Mrs. Beryl Felsher, Mrs. Ellie Flory, Mr. Don Highland, Mrs. Gilda Hoffman and Mrs. Mary Ellen Tietjen.

Four years ago when Keyboard Arts was developing a piano program for adults, they volunteered to participate in the experimental class. The students enjoyed playing together so much that the class was continued after it had completed the course. In the last four years they have not only learned to read music, but also to make their own accompaniments to melodies.

As in previous years, S.O.M.E.M.O.B. presented a scholarship to the Keyboard Arts studio. The recipients of the scholarship were Mark Fleming, son of Mr. and Mrs. H.E. Fleming, Princeton Junction, and Mark Baxter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brian T. Baxter, Trenton.

Highlights of the program on Thursday were the performance of original jazz compositions and arrangements for four pianos of Chopin's "Fantasy-Impromptu" and Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue.'

WORKSHOP SCHEDULED

For Music Teachers. The New School for Music Study, a Princeton-based center for research in piano pedagogy, will conduct a workshop from June 27-30, drawing more than 100 teachers from 15 states.

The three-day program, using dormitory and classroom facilities at Princeton Theological Seminary, is designed to bring piano teachers up to date in their field through lectures, performances and live and videotaped teaching demonstrations. Other workshops are scheduled for Dallas on the Southern Methodist University campus; St. Paul, Minnesota, at Macalester College; and Oakland, California at Mills College.

Staff members will be Frances Clark, president of the New School; Louise Goss, director of the school; and Roger Grove, of the music faculty of the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Area teachers may still enroll through the New School for Music Study, Box 407, Princeton or 921-2900. Tuition is $76 and meals are available in the seminary dining room.

Among workshop subjects are: "It's Never Too Late to Begin," a new approach to the needs, abilities and interests of the older or adult beginner; "Right, from the Start," ways to insure student success from the beginning in group and private study; "If at First They Don't Succeed, They May Come to You," development of programs and techniques for transfer students; and "There's No Substitute for Live Teaching," spontaneous interaction between Princeton students and their teachers in repertoire classes. Lecture-recitals will feature performance and analysis of the best recent music of all types and levels, and many composers and publishers.

Two former New School students, Tom Dickinson, now a piano major at Yale University, and Sam Holland, now of the New School faculty, will appear in recital at the opening session, on the evening of June 27, in a program of Mozart, Beethoven, Prokofiev, Ravel and Schonberg.

PRINCE

Family Plot. For his 53rd film, Alfred Hitchcock has toned down the shock and accentuated the humor. Barbara Harris and Bruce Dern star as two innocent tricksters whose search for a missing heir suddenly parallels the path of a pair of professional kidnappers. A lot of fun from the old master.

Jack and the Beanstalk. This one is for the kiddies.

PLAYHOUSE

The Missouri Breaks. Two old pros have a good time in this western saga directed by Arthur Penn. Marlon Brando is a professional killer hired to exterminate a band of professional horse thieves led by Jack Nicholson.

ERIC LAWRENCEVILLE

Mother, Jugs and Speed. A zany, comedy-adventure about a rundown private ambulance service in Los Angeles starring Bill Cosby, Raquel Welch, Harvey Keitel and Dick Butkus. The latter was once a linebacker of the Chicago Bears.

GARDEN

That's Entertainment, Part 2 (Starts Friday): Not as exhilerating as the magical first installment, "Part 2" is another compilation of hand-picked moments from some fourscore MGS features. Once again, the major emphasis is on musicals but this time there are some forays into comedies as well.

Serving as narrators and providing the nominal framework are Fred Astaire and Gene Kelly, who also go through some immensely satisfying dance routines in their first pairing in 30 years. The film covers the entire range of MGM musical offerings from the 1930s through the 50s. Major sequences include a tribute to musical animation (including Kelly dancing with cartoon partners in his rarely-seen "Invitation to the Dance"), a salute to Frank Sinatra and a set of musical numbers with a Paris theme.

Non-musical segments include a generous hunk of the Marx Brothers, a warm look at some memorable pairings of Spencer Tracy and Katherine Hepburn, a montage of Garbo wanting to be alone and a hilarious compilation of James L. Kirkpatrick travelogues, each bidding the same purple prose farewell to some exotic land.

"That's Entertainment" culled the creme de la creme, and although Part 2 is not its equal, it is still highly satisfying entertainment.

IT'S NEW To Us

NOW THREE YEARS OLD

Stained Glass Studio Has Grown. Three years ago this month Brooke Baumann started The Stained Glass Studio of Hopewell as a place where she could work and develop her own ideas, as well as teach a new apprentice.

Originally, she had no idea of opening a shop, and yet she is pleased with the way things have gone. The studio has grown to two showrooms where she and Daurelle Golden, her apprentice, now a full partner, design and restore a myriad of new and old stained glass windows.

While most of their work is custom, there are samples and these are for sale. In fact, when we visited, they were working on a new design of a hanging basket with trailing vines for the display window, because a customer had found the previous window just perfect and bought it on the spot.

However, generally when a new window is needed, Brooke and Daurelle have customers look at samples, pictures of previous jobs and collections of old windows to get a feeling of their ideas and needs. They try to keep each job original, and a typical presentation might include three colored designs from which the customer can then choose.

Many Art Styles. Their work draws from many art styles as can be seen from the samples. There is a spider web design, a contemporary bamboo pattern, a stylized oval foral motif and a half-moon sunburst.

Previous jobs have included an interlocking rainbow design for a contemporary Princeton home, a large yellow sunflower for the bathroom window of a reconverted barn overlooking a field of sunflowers, and a grape arbor pattern for the wine cellar area of Tom Moore's restaurant.

Prices are difficult to quote here, because each job is different. Neither woman wants to mass produce anything, and normally they do not repeat a pattern. The size of the window, the number of pieces involved, the type of glass and even the colors used all determine the price.

"It's hard to pinpoint one," Brooke commented. "The same size window could cost from $100 to $2,000." "However," Daurelle added, "The simplest designs are often the most elegant."

When we asked about the various glass available, both agreed that the hand-blown glass imported from France and Germany was a superior product and well worth the extra premium. When the light hits this glass it can cast a color across an entire room, creating a nice effect; and as labor is always a major part of any price, the extra expense is not really all that great. As an example, Brooke said that a $200 window might be $235 with this imported glass.

Only a few studios do all aspects of stained and leaded glass work, and this happens to be one. Most important is the restoration of old windows, because even the handsomest ones need professional care every 50 to 100 years. Like so many people today, Brooke and Daurelle feel that the old should be repaired and preserved and they take pride in doing this.

Repair Work. The most common repairs involve replacing glass, re-leading and new supports across the back of a work as the lead work is soft and can bend if the piece is large.

However, The Stained Glass Studio has developed a reputation among dealers for being able to repair anything, and some of their jobs are quite involved. Currently they are piecing together a window of a woman set in a flower border that arrived in the studio as a box of loose pieces. While most of this has been preserved, the job involves irreplaceable glass, an artists's work on the face and sections that are beyond repiar – adding up to a lot of creativity on the part of the studio.

They also repair the simple leaded casement windows that are frequently found in the Princeton area, and are willing to work on the bent lampshades. While these shades could once be purchased from Sears for about $14, they now cost about $300, and if a section cracks, few studios will do the repair work as it is very involved, with a strong chance that something may go wrong.

Depending on the piece involved, Brooke and Daurelle use both the soldered lead and copper foil method of working on stained glass. Both have positive aspects, although all windows must have the lead in order to be waterproofed.

Last year the studio expanded next door into a second showroom to display antique stained glass windows. The selection here changes frequently, but they are all old and many have been repaired by Brooke and Daurelle. However, they don't repair every small crack because often these do not hurt the piece structurally and they feel it is possible to over-repair something. After all, if you are looking for an old window, you probably don't want it to look brand new.

Currently there are some marvelous pieces here, such as a nine-section ceiling panel from France, and a beveled cut-crystal glass door that is in perfect condition and placed in the right location the light will cast prisms all over a room.

Windows For Many Uses. While these two are obviously expensive, not everything is.

ART
In Princeton

EXHIBIT ON VIEW

At Western Electric. "Pastorale," a collection of paintings and sculpture, is on display in the obby of the Western Electric Company Corporate Education Center on Carter Road in Hopewell Township. The collection includes welded steel, collage, watercolor, acrylic and casein.

The artists, all of whom have achieved recognition in their field, include: Helene Borns, Ranulph Bye, Vincent Ceglia, Charles Coiner, John Foster, Jim Gary, Calvin Hart, Katherine Steele Renninger and Helen Schwartz. The display will run through the end of June and is open to the public 9 to 4 weekdays and Sunday 2 to 5. The collection was arranged by Renee Levine.

WILDLIFE OILS SHOWN

In Hopewell Gallery. Wildlife paintings by Tinneke Brouwers are on display at D and D Frames, 53 Railroad Avenue, Hopewell. The oil painting show will continue through July 10.

Ms. Brouwers was born in Antwerp, Belgium, and emigrated to the United States in 1962. She became a citizen in 1968 and started to paint the following year. She has studied at the Studio on the Canal with Rex Goreleigh and has exhibited at the Loft Gallery as well as in several puhlic buildings and art shows.

An animal lover specializing in painting wild animals, she has gone to Africa to study them in their natural habitat. Some of her paintings of animals are on permanent display at the Deluxe Travel Bureau, 188 Nassau Street.

The gallery is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 until 5.

Warehouse Moves to Montgomery Center

Nassau Interiors has had warehouse sales in the past. using space in the basement of the Hilton building a few doors up on Nassau Street, but this time Leonard LaPlaca has such big plans he has had to move the sale out of town.

Starting this Thursday and running approximately a month, Nassau Interiors will run its sale from a store in the Montgomery Shopping Center next to Studio 12. This is a temporary location, rented just for this sale. The main store will continue to operate from 162 Nassau Street.

Mr. LaPlaca told us he has made special purchases from some of the leading furniture manufacturers, which will enable customers to realize sizeable savings over the same merchandise offered elsewhere.

The sale will include: Drexel bedroom sets to be sold at less than the original wholesale prices; Simmons Beautyrest box spring and mattress sets, never before offered on sale because of the Fair Trade laws; and Stratford sofabeds with matching loveseats (which may be bought separately) at prices comparable to values 20 years ago.

Each week new merchandise will be added as it arrives from factories in the South.

Windows start at about $30 and they do not all need to be installed. For instance, a free-form French piece (there weren't enough pieces to repair the whole window so they left it this way) or a clear glass English casement window with all the old hardware would be attractive simply propped up among some plants.

Brooke and Daurelle have many thoughts as to how to use these windows and their customers are always suggesting others. An arched pair of doors make a headboard, a window can stand in front of a summer fireplace and old heavy doors can be used as room dividers.

However, if you wish to use them as windows, the studio can often add a border or reduce the size to make it fit the existing window in your home--an advantage of having the showroom and studio all the same.

Particularly important is the fact that all the work is done here. It is just the two of them and they have purposely remained small. Each job is different, and by helping each other they are constantly learning. Although before this Brooke had worked for a Philadelphia studio, she says, "I have really learned everything here because I could be on my own and express myself, without working for someone else.

Located at 25-29 Railroad Place in Hopewell, The Stained Glass Studio is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 until 5.

Weddings

Princeton Pike, Lawrenceville, to Steven J. Groeger, son of Mrs. Lorie Groeger, also of Lawrenceville, and the late John Groeger; June 6 at Har Sinai Temple, Rabbi Bernard Perelmuter and Cantor Marshall Glatzer presiding.

The couple are both graduates of Lawrence High School. Mrs. Groeger graduated from the Princeton Hospital School of Nursing and is employed by the Lawrenceville Nursing Home. Mr. Groeger graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, N.Y. and is employed by the New Jersey Department of Transportation as an electrical engineer.

Goforth-Clewell. Cheryl L. Clewell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Clewell of 36 Nassau Place, Princeton Junction, to David L. Goforth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester L. Goforth of Crossville, Tenn.; May 29 at First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck, the Rev. David L. Blackburn and the Rev. James S. Weaver officiating.

The bride graduated from Princeton High School and Vanderbilt University with a BSN in nursing. She works at Baptist Hospital in Nashville, where the couple will live.

Mr. Goforth graduated from Cumberland County High School and attended the University of Tennessee in Knoxville. He is a pressman for Check Printers, Inc.

Clubs and Organizations

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Princeton awarded the $50 prize in honor of A. Myrtle Hensor to Josephine Carnevale of 308 Ewing Street. This prize goes to the senior girl graduate of Princeton High School with the highest scholarship in business education subjects.

Miss Carnevale has also been working at the Nassau Inn as an Accounting Clerk as part of the Cooperative Office Education program at Princeton High School and plans to continue in the field of secretarial science at Mercer County Community College.

The Community Alternatives Group will hold its monthly pot luck supper Saturday at 7 followed by a meeting at 8. The CAG, organized to allow individuals to explore together life styles and technologies which support quality environment and human relationships, will present a slide talk on the New Alchemy Institute, a small international organization for research and education on behalf of humanity and the planet.

The Hopewell Valley Singles Club will hold a champagne brunch Sunday from 11 to 3 at Irmsh Farm. All area singles are invited, especially members of other singles groups. For more information call 737-3055, 737-2006, or 737-3720.

At the annual meeting of the Princeton Youth Fund, the following were elected as officers: president, Mrs. Lucius Wilmerding III; vice president, Charles B. Anderson; secretary, Mrs. Henry E. Bessire; and treasurer, Daniel D. Dickey. New board members include Miss Alice R. Braveman, Mrs. J.P. Cleaver, A.C. Reeves Hicks, Mrs. Edward J. McCabe Jr., Reid White and Mrs. Hibben Zeising.

Mrs. J. Richardson Ddworth was appointed an honorary member of the board upon her retirement after serving two terms. Present members reappointed for a second term include David McAlpin, Arthur Morgan, Mrs. Stanley C. Smoyer and Mrs. James C. Thornton.

Since 1968 the Youth Fund has supported a variety of youth oriented projects, such as Career Development Awards, Creative Theatre Unlimited, Princeton Youth Center, Flight II, Hot Line, Summer Sounds, Street Theater, Princeton Education Center at Blairstown and the YWCA Interim Homes for Adolescents program.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs 20 cents.

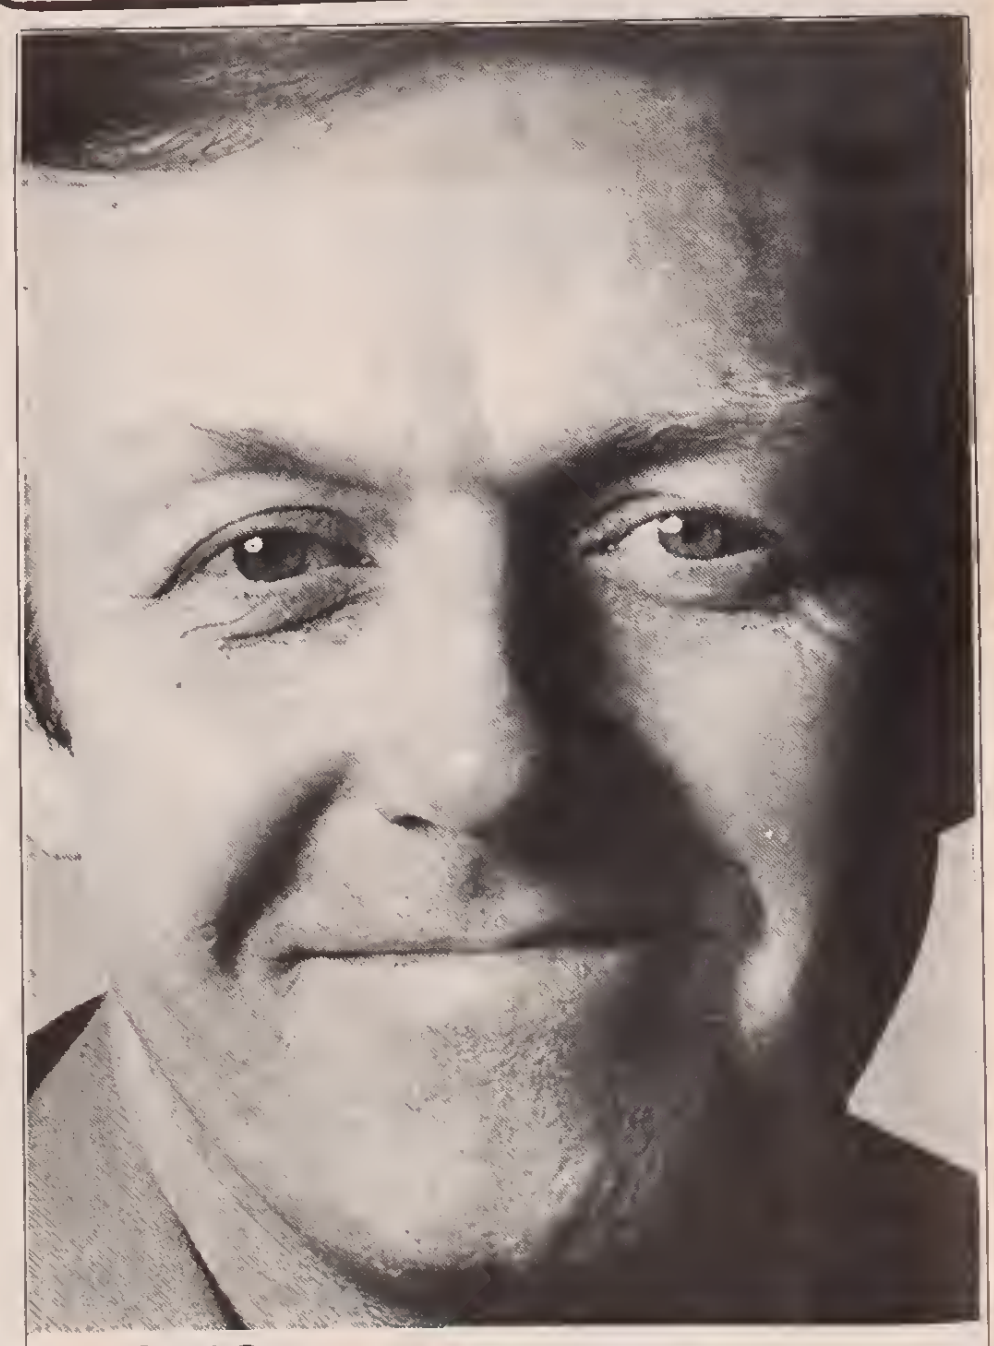
"The Hun School admits students of any race, color, religion, and national or ethnic origin."



Isn't 10 minutes with an old friend worth $1.50?

The sound of your voice is always a delightful surprise to someone who cares about you. And chances are you can make that happy kind of call for a lot less than you think. For example:
A 10 minute call to New Orleans.
A 10 minute call to Wichita.
A 10 minute call to Thief River Falls, Minnesota.

They each cost just $1.50 from anywhere in New Jersey, when you dial the call yourself and call during the lowest bargain calling times.

There's always a right time for a long talk.

Degrees, Diplomas for Princeton Area Residents

Andrea Benarde

F. Andrea Benarde, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Melvin A. Benarde of 45 Cuyler Road, graduated cum laude from the University of Delaware. A 1973 graduate of Princeton High School, she majored in urban problems and politics and worked for the Newark, Del., Planning Commission on its master plan. She will continue her studies at Stanford Law School.

Robert J. Higgins Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Higgins of 265 Herrontown Road, graduated from the University of New Hampshire, Durham, N.H., with a bachelor of science degree in business administration. A 1972 graduate of The Hun School, he was involved with the Small Business Administration as a student counselor to Durham area businesses.

Five Princeton area residents have received Ph.D. degrees from Rutgers University. They include William H. Atkinson of Old Georgetown Road; Jean O. Dickey, 606 Larence Apartments; Ruth Holzberg, 189 South Harrison Street; Robert P. Bonja, R.D. 1; and Natalie G. Freeman of 22 Crusher Road, Hopewell.

Two who received Doctor of Education degrees are Ursula C. Gerhart of 16 Nelson Ridge Road and Jean N. Dorgan of 370 Ewing Street. Adele S. Simmons, dean of student affairs and associate dean of the college at Princeton University, was awarded an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters from Lake Forest College, her second honorary degree from that institution. Formerly dean of Jackson College, Tufts University, she was the first woman senior academic officer at Princeton and at Tufts she was one of the youngest deans in the country. A Radcliffe graduate who received her D. Phil. in African history at Oxford, she currently teaches a seminar on South Africa and assists in courses on African history as well as 20th century American history.

Dwight M. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Wilson of 4574 Province Line Road, received a diploma at commencement exercises at the Phillips Exeter Academy. He was awarded High Honors for academic achievement, was chairman of the school newspaper, and was a member of the Washington Intern Program in which he worked for Congressman Ed Mezvinsky (D.-Iowa) on whose re-election campaign he will work this summer in Iowa. He will attend Yale University in the fall.

William C.S. Remsen

William C.S. Remsen, son of Mrs. W.H. Saven III of the Great Road and the late William C.S. Remsen graduated magna cum laude from the University of Pennsylvania with honors in anthropology. He will be working in Iran this summer.

AFS SENDS 3 ABROAD

For Summer. Three Princeton students, two from Priceton Day School and one from the High School, left this week to spend the summer abroad through the sponsorship of the Princeton Chapter of American Field Service.

Claire Treves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gino Treves, is on her way to Baguio City in the Phillipines to spend three months with Mr. and Mrs. Elmelio Perez who live near that nation's summer capitol. Mr. Perez in a mining engineer, and there are four tennage girls and one boy in the family. Miss Treves is a junior at PDS.

Another PDS student, Fifi Laughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Laughlin, will live in the port city of Guayaquil, Equador, with Mr. and Mrs. Luis Lalama and family of three sons and one daughter. Mr. Lalama is a colonel with the Air Force of Equador.

Ellen Dunham, a senior at Princeton High School, missed her own graduation exercises by one day in order to begin her journey to Darwin, Northern Territory, Australia. Ellen will stay with Captain and Mrs. Thomas Dadswell and three daughters at Admiralty House. Capt. Dadswell of the Australian Navy, is in charge of recovery and reconstruction activities in Darwin, a city almost destroyed by a typhoon in 1974. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Alden Dunham.

Also in Australia with the AFS program is Richard Besser, son of Dr. and Mrs. William Besser. Richard is spending a year near Sydney, New South Wales, which is approximately 2000 miles from Darwin across the Australian continent. Australian continent.

AWARDED SCHOLARSHIP

From Area Alumni. A graduating senior from Princeton Day School and resident of Lawrenceville has been named as the first recipient of the Princeton Area Alumni Association Scholarship.

William H. Von Oehsen, III, who will matriculate at Princeton University in September with the Class of 1980, was awarded the scholarship by the area alumni organization. He is the son of Princeton attorney William H Von Oehsen, Jr., Class of 1956, and lives at 2805 Main Street, Lawrenceville.

At Princeton Day School he was sports editor and business manager of the school newspaper, a member of the student government, a tutor in math and physics, and a participant in cross-country and basketball. His outside interests include playing the organ, synthesizer and piano in a rock band, and collectiag model trains.

The scholarship was established under the direction of Richard H. Sly '44, former president of the Princeton Area Alumni Association. According to current president Jeremiah Ford III '54, the association has contributed a total of $8,000 to the university in the last two years and set up the endowed scholarship. The fund will be added to each year from dues collected by the PAAA, until it is fully endowed.

Von Oehsen's great-grandfather, the late Prof. Wdliam Starr Myers, was one of Woodrow Wilson's original group of preceptors.

Of all the teams that have ever won the pennant in major league baseball, which one was the biggest long-shot to win? ... Answer is the 1969 New York Mets who had odds of 100-1 against them finishing in first place -- but they did ... In 1968, the Mets had finished in 9th place, but in 1969 they defied the odds and finished first, to become the biggest underdog in history -- so far -- to win the pennant.

Here"s an oddity ... The United States bought what is now the whole state of Alaska from Russia in the last century for 7.2-million dollars -- and today it sometimes cost more than ten times that amount just to build one sports stadium!

Has any player ever played ALL 9 positions in one major league baseball game? ... Oddly enough, it has happened ... Bert Campaneris did it for the A's in a game in 1965, and Cesar Tovar did it for the Twins in a game in 1968.

PHS Coaches Plan to Strike If Budget Cuts School Board Now Proposes Become Effective

Can the Princeton High School athletic program survive a 44 percent cut in a budget that the coaches have said was already "bareboned?"

In a letter to the school board last week, the coaching staff declared that there comes "a point at which the value of the program no longer exists either for the high school... or the students..."

Reacting to a proposal by Athletic Director Norman Van Arsdalen that would cut the athletic budget from $42,600 to $25,000, the coaches,

Norm Van Arsdalen
"Not a good solution"

representing 30 of the 34 positions and every major sport at the school, have signed a statement saying that "as a matter of conscience, the coaches... will not coach at the High School next year if the current proposal from the Athletic Director is adopted..."

To achieve the cutback, Van Arsdalen has proposed eliminating two sports--winter track and golf--eliminating freshmen teams, reducing the number of athletic events and shortening the seasons. "We're struggling, it's a tough one," said Van Arsdalen who acknowledged the proposals "were not a good solution."

Would Defer Stipends. As an alternative to salvaging the sports program, the coaches have offered to defer their stipends for one year with the stipulation that the Board of Education earmark the money for the 1976-77 athletic program.

The stipends range from $600 to $1500. Together they total $15,800 and would bring the budget to within $2,000 of the current one.

"Perhaps the most serious mistake they're making," said PHS baseball coach Jim O'Neill, refering to the school board, "is thinking we're just blowing off steam, that we're not serious. "We're dead serious."

"I can guarantee that we will not have a football team this fall. Every football coach has signed; the head coach of every major sport at the high school has signed."

O'Neill, who has been named spokesman for the coaches, added. "We want to be co-operative. We recognize they can't work out all the specifics overnight."

In mentioning that Superintendent Philip McPherson felt that the offer to defer their stipends may not be 'contractually legal', he insisted, nonetheless, that "it is not far-fetched for the board to make a committment to our proposal."

Man in the Middle. Although the coaches had hoped that Van Arsdalen would have served more as an advocate of athletics in his role as Athletic Administrator, he is a man caught in the middle. "I'm not for downgrading or destroying any program; I've worked too hard for 26 years to build it up for that," he said.

"It's not only athletics, but math and English classes as well. The hard thing about it is that not the board, not the superintendent, not the principal, want to see these cuts. We all want the same thing but there are just X number of dollars. This proposal is what I felt would have to happen to live within the budget.

"If we get some of those dollars back, there is no question in my mind the cuts will be replaced. But it just isn't there right now. And we can't wait 'til next year. I don't want to even release the fall schedule. I'm freezing everything."

Part of the problem, Van Arsdalen, explained is that there are a number of fixed charges that have to be paid. "If half goes for fixed items, then, in essence, everything else will be hit double," he said.

Anyone familiar with the athletic program at PHS is aware that past budgets have been sparse. Equipment and facilities are worn and in need of replacement. O'Neill reported that football coach Jim Beachell has spent $600 to $700 of his own money on the football program. He himself has used his own money to purchase a baseball throwing machine to help players develop their hitting. "The last thing we're interested in is any personal gain," he said.

Coaching stipends, O'Neill reported, have not been raised in eight years. "Eight years ago we were the highest paid in the county. Now other schools have passed us by."

Why So Special? Everything else at the high school is being cut 40 percent -- why is the athletic department any different? In asking the question, O'Neill replied that he felt the board was being irresponsible in cutting everything 40 percent. "Some programs you just can't cut," he said. "Others could be cut entirely for a year. It's not fair to the kids. They've worked too hard for that."

Among the adverse effects on the program predicted by the coaches are a decrease in the number of students participating in sports and an increase in the number of young people who will seek another school other than Princeton High.

They also foresee an increase in the number of injuries as a consequence of asking students to compete before they have had time to be physically conditioned and a steady deterioration of the varsity sport program because of a lack of experience that would result from the elimination of freshman teams.

Denying outstanding athletes a chance to receive college and scholarships based on their athletic ability is another negative factor. The present proposal, say the

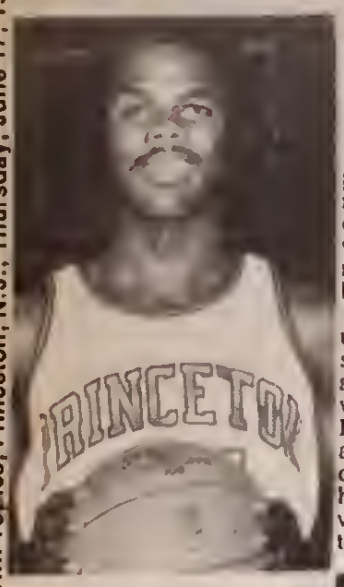
Hill and Hauptfuhrer Taken Early in NBA Draft After Hill's Unexpected Cut from Olympic Team



Armond Hill
No. 9, to Atlanta

Why would a basketball player good enough to be picked in the first round of the NBA draft be cut from those trying for a place on the U.S. Olympic team?

Don't ask Armond Hill, the Princeton guard who was chosen by the Atlanta Hawks as the ninth player to go in the draft – four days after he was bypassed at the Olympic level. Armond is too nice a guy to make a sour comment, although he did say that he had his heart set on representing this country at Montreal next month.

Don't ask Dean Smith, the coach of the U.S. team. He didn't have the final say on the 15 players selected for the Olympics, even though it will largely be his responsibility if the U.S. fails to regain the championship it lost in the final minute to Russia in 1972.

In a typical Olympic administrative foul-up, a committee was named to evaluate the players accepted after 56 candidates underwent tryouts for a week in North Carolina. They failed to pick a good big man at center, and they failed to take Armond Hill, whose qualities as floor leader are so strong that Atlanta grabbed him before the Philadelphia Sixers, who wanted him badly, had their first pick. While not mentioning specific individuals who were omitted, Smith said he disagreed with some of the final nominees for the team, and there is reason to believe he would have been happy to have had Armond Hill.

Team Concept Overlooked. All Hill would say about being bypassed was that Dean Smith had told him he was interested in a team that worked together, in guards who got the offense in motion and passed to the open man. Low scoring (around 14 points) in contrast to the six guards who were selected, Hill thinks maybe he overdid his typical belief in team play.

Not only was Hill's ability upheld by NBA interest in his services but he had the satisfaction of being drafted well ahead of Phil Sellers, the Rutgers All-American whose ability in some quarters had constantly been adjudged as higher than Hill's. Sellers, who was inclined to agree with the estimate, is on record as having said of his fellow Brooklyn resident: "We got dozens of guys on the playgrounds of Brooklyn better than he is!"

Barnes Hauptfuhrer
No. 44, to Houston

Hauptfuhrer Went Early. When Barnes Hauptfuhrer, the 6-7 forward who had played at Princeton with Hill for three seasons, became a fourth-round selection of the Houston Rockets, the surprise expressed by many a Princeton basketball fan was second only to Hauptfuhrer's. He had sound reason to feel he would have a chance for a shot at a pro career, but admitted that he thought he would go several rounds lower than four.

Like every Pete Carril player, Hauptfuhrer is adept at defensive basketball, blending these skills with a fine eye from outside for the basket. As a sophomore in a game against Notre Dame at South Bend, Indiana, he hit on 11 for 11, a mark that is likely to endure in the Princeton record book for some time to come.

The two players join a growing list of Princeton alumni who have moved into professional ranks – one that started with Bud Palmer and Bill van Breda Kolff (later the coach here during the Bill Bradley era); Bradley himself, who joined the New York Knicks, as Palmer and van Breda Kolff had; Geoff Petrie, who went to Portland; Brian Taylor, who declared himself a hardship case after his junior year and signed with the New York Nets; John Hummer, who began with Buffalo and went to the Chicago Bulls; Ted Manakas, who started with the Atlanta Hawks; and Tim Van Blommesteyn, whose career was aborted by the rapidly dissolving status of the ABA.

Sellers waited until the third round before the Detroit Pistons took him, nor was he the first of the Rutgers team of the past winter to be chosen. Two picks earlier, the Los Angeles Lakers took Mike Dabney, a fellow senior on the Scarlet team which won 31 times before it lost.

Typically, Hill refused to take credit for having gone far higher in the draft than Sellers. "If I say anything, I'd put my foot in my mouth," was his comment, and he added, "You can't take anything away from Phil. He's a great player."

coaches, virtually insures that PHS will not be able to offer athletes the opportunity to excell.

"Royce Flippin would never have acheived what he did," commented O'Neill, "without winter track that allowed him to keep that competitive edge." Flippin was an outstanding distance runner for PHS during his four years at the school.

The coaching staff contends that you cannot conceivably run any program with a 44 percent cut that had a minimal budget to begin with, and still have a program worthy of the name. The coaches feel so strongly that they are willing to take a personal financial loss for the time being to maintain the present program.

Next move was up to the School Board, which was still waiting to learn whether there would be any school at all as of July 1.

GOLD MEDALS WON

By Two Princeton Girls. The Princeton AAU Junior Olympic Track Team ran into stiff competition at the state championships in Middlesex Saturday, as it managed only two first place finishes.

Bantam long-jumper Jennifer Murphy fashioned a 6-6 leap, while defending state champion Julie Ellis bettered her previous record with a jump of 7-10½".

Brian Walker ran a fine 11.0 100-yard dash in junior competition, but was overshadowed by the new state record holder from Summit, clocked in 10.7. Pat Sheehan finished second in the Midget 880-yard run with a 2:32.7, while Jason Petrone finished second in the Bantam baseball throw with a toss of 157-1.

Two Princeton relay teams, comprised of Jason Petrone, Mike Petrone, Peter Kellogg and Joe O'Grady and Josh Miller, Carl Rice, David Barclay and Kim Wells, captured third-place finishes.

Diana Caskey trimmed six seconds off her best mile with a 5:54 showing for a fourth place finish, and Willie Whitaker also finished fourth with a shot put of 29-2.

The Junior Boys relay team finished fourth, aided by a strong last leg by Brian Walker, who gained over 20 yards on the field. Bill Sapoch finished third in the triple jump with 30-6½, while LeRoy Hunninghake placed fifth in the Junior shot put with 36-3¾.

in the first week of play in the Princeton Recreation Adult Softball League.

Grover's defeated C. Sq. C., 4-1, and pounded P.M.C., 20-5. Tom Hagadorn belted a home run to lead Grover's over C. Sq. C., while Ed Coldren had two homers and a triple in the P.M.C. contest. Tim Kearns also had a big night, going five for five.

History was made by Center Sports' Joe Moffo as he no-hit P.M.C., the first in league history. Moffo didn't walk anyone, and faced 22 batters, only one over the minimum.

Jamie Petrone and Brendon Layton of Center Sports both homered in the 8-0 win. Later in the week, Center Sports defeated Andy's, 12-9, as Petrone homered again. Andy's John Barone had four hits, one a homer.

Conte's scored victories over Andy's, 3-2, and Plainsboro Package Store, 13-0. Doug Heil singled home Jerry Perpetua, who had doubled, to give Conte's the win over Andy's in bottom of the last inning. In the rout over Plainsboro, Wayne Johnson collected three hits to lead Conte's attack.

In other action, C. Sq. C. belted Ivy Inn 13-5 as Ernie Henderson made three hits. Earlier in the week, Ivy routed Plainsboro Package Store, 18-4. Ray Pettus had three hits for Ivy, as did Bob Zinsmeister, one of them a homer.

THREE ARE TIED

In Little League. Two games into the Princeton Youth Baseball Association Little League, Post 76, Elks and Eagles are all tied with 2-0 records while last year's undefeated champion, Engine No. 1, is struggling with an 0-2 record.

Clark Lippincott fanned 11 and added three hits, one a triple, to lead Post 76 past VA Local 380, 12-6. Peter Nelson had four hits and Philip Corwin tripled for the victors. Scott Roney, Josh Miller and Carl Rice all hit for extra bases for the losers, each getting a pair of hits.

Nelson struck out 13 and homered in Post 76's 6-4 win over Italian American Sportsmen Club. Terry Phox doubled and Lippincott added two more hits for Post 76, while Scott Perone doubled and Don Casciola tripled for the losers.

The Elks knocked off Engine No. 1, 10-3, behind the 14-strikeout hurling of Peter Krassnoff who received two-hit support from Pat Kellogg and Reid Horowitz. Judd Petrone homered for No. 1. For their second win, Elks blasted Engine No. 3 as Horowitz spun a three-hitter, fanning 11. Jeff Henkel, Todd Breithaupt and Kellog paced the victor's attack. Todd Geherty had two hits for No. 3.

The Eagles kept pace with wins over Engine No. 3 and No. 1. Muskie Teresky, 16 strikeouts and two hits, got the win over Engine No. 3 and was joined offensively by Dave Riemin (three hits) and Paul Kenny who had two. Lamont Fletcher homered for one of the losers' two runs. Against No. 1, Kenny struck out eight en route to a 6-4 win. Jason Petrone tripled for the Eagles while Brian O'Grady has a bases-loaded triple for No. 1.

PIASC won its first game, defeating Roma Eterna, 14-2, and VA Local 380 evened its record with a 14-3 win over the same club. Todd Geherty and Kenny McKeller combined for a two-hit, nine strikeout performance. Greg Lieberman counted a triple among his three hits for the victors, while Carl Rice and Josh Miller each added two more hits for the easy win.

QUACKENBUSH NAMED

To Hockey Hall of Fame. Bill Quackenbush, whose 13-year career in the National Hockey League preceded his arrival on the Princeton scene, has been elected to the Hockey Hall of Fame. Now coach of the steadily successful Princeton golf team and director of both Baker Rink and Dillon Gymnasium, Quackenbush has also been both varsity and freshman coach of hockey here.

He began playing defense for the Detroit Red Wings in 1943 and was traded six years later to the Boston Bruins, finishing out his career there in 1956. During that time, he was named to the NHL all-star team three times and on three other occasions placed on the second team.

In his last year at Detroit, Quackenbush won the Lady Bing Trophy for combining good conduct on ice with topflight play. During one stretch, he played in 137 games without being charged with a penalty despite earning a reputation for highly-efficient checking.

In the 774 regular-season games in which he saw action, Quackenbush was charged with only 94 penalty minutes. He scored 62 goals and was credited with 222 assists.

Toronto goal-tender Johnny Bower was named to the Hall of Fame with Quackenbush, as were three others who have served in administrative capacities. Induction is scheduled for August 29 in Toronto, where the Hall of Fame is located.

POST 76 IS 1-3

In Legion League. After an opening 1-0 shutout over Hamilton Post 313 in which Darryl MacPherson fashioned a five-hitter, it has been all down hill for Post 76, Princeton's entry in the Mercer County American Legion League.

Despite a fine four-hit effort by Rich Malacrea, Post 76 lost its second start, 2-0, to Hightstown Post 148, and in its next two games, the Princeton defense broke down.

The third game saw a fine six-hit performance by Dana Nini wasted as Princeton committed 12 errors, three in the ninth inning when Hamilton Post 34 took advantage of Princeton's largess to overcome a 3-2 deficit and go home with a gift 4-3 victory. The only thing the Princeton fielders didn't supply was the blue ribbon.

Two of Princeton's runs came off a double by Dave Duncan.

In its most recent start, Post 76 suffered through its second ninth-inning defeat in a row, losing Saturday to Ewing Post 314, 5-4. Again key fielding mistakes gave Ewing the momentum it needed.

Princeton jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the second after Malacrea tripled home Steve Hulburt, who had walked. Malacrea then scored on an error.

Princeton increased its lead to 4-2 in the eighth on singles by Scott Thompson and Bill Schroeder, an error, a balk on Ewing pitcher Ernie Barbiero and a perfect squeeze bunt by Jim LaPlaca.

In the ninth, however, Princeton starter MacPherson, going for his second win, tired and had control problems. He walked three, allowed too hits and watched as a dropped pop fly allowed Ewing to knot the score at 4 all. Dave Dudek singled home the winning run.

32 QUALIFY

In Springdale Tournament. Match play will begin Saturday at Springdale Golf Club in the annual President's Cup tournament. Thirty-two members qualified Sunday using full handicaps, with the net scores ranging from 68 to 79.

Stu Wilson and Harold Crane were the medalists with 68s. Two rounds of match play, each 18 holes in length, are scheduled for this weekend, with survivors meeting in the quarter-finals the following weekend.

The pairings in the first round of play:

Stu Wilson vs. Dick Schranz; Dick Leibler vs. Dave Savage; Ross Shrader vs. Lyle Fitch; Arne Booth vs. Bob Shillaber; Dick Querns vs. Joe Masick; Jim Litvack vs. Dan Hall; Fritz Blaicher vs. Fred Short; Kline Fulmer vs. Bob Cronin.

Also, Harold Crane vs. Don Drescher; Wilbur Young vs. Jack Sweeney; Fred Gallagher vs. Ken Dawes; Wendell Breithaupt vs. Jim Turgeon; Bob Clancy vs. Dick Thompson; Jack Mudge vs. Frank Crecca; Steve Fillo vs. Bob Forrey; and Sol Davidson vs. Bill Millman.

Women members at Springdale held the annual 36-hole low gross Betty Whelan Tournament, Kate Litvack winning with 174. Nummie Warga was second, one stroke higher. The two-day ringer Chairman's Tournament was won by Mary Rogers with a net 65, followed by Anne Poole and Kay Conover at 67.

Earlier this month, 16 members of Bedens Brook played 16 Springdale women at Springdale, losing 28 to 22. A return match at Bedens Brook will be held July 29.

NEW LEAGUE BEGINS

In Women's Softball. Play has started in the new Princeton Women's Softball League.

Kingston Wine defeated Ivy Inn, 10-7, last week, with Mary Ellen Froelich hitting two home runs in the first inning and another home run contributed in the third by Maureen Nosal. Ivy Inn's Kim Davis hit a triple and Lolly Procaccine a double to keep the score close.

Conte's romped over Woman's Place, 22-4, with homers hit by Debbie Breithaupt in the second and third, Kim Crommwell in the third and Rita Lucchilo in the seventh. Robin Mina hit 4 for 4 for the losers.

Koffee Kup trounced Pizza Palace, 32 to 3, and the Princeton Medical Center also had a high-scoring game against the Zephyrs, 20 to 6. A triple by Sue Anderson and a home run hit by Terry Halpin were the big blows for the Medical Center. The Zephyrs picked up four runs in the sixth on singles by Holly Burke, Joan Hagadorn, Vicki Mayers, Kathy Price and Linda Pinelli.

Womans Place won easily over the Zephyrs, 27 to 5, exploding for 12 runs in the third inning to turn a 1-0 ball game into a rout. Johnnie and Michael Hill led the attack with Michael getting three home runs and batting in eight. Zephyrs' Linda Pinelli pitched out of two bases-loaded jams in the first two innings, each with no one out.

THE REAL LIZZI EUBANK: In a story last week about Princeton High School freshman Lizzi Eubank, who captured national recognition for her performance in a lacrosse cradling contest during which she ran more than 17 miles without stopping, TOWN TOPICS inadvertently inserted a picture of PHS junior Libby Hicks, a member of the varsity lacrosse team. Above is the real Lizzi.

Koffee Kup outlasted Conte's in a close game, 15-13. Kingston Wine defeated Pizza Palace, 27-4. Kingston Wine scored 12 runs in the first and nine in the third with the game being called after the fourth.

Ivy Inn picked up its first win of the season over Princeton Medical Center, 16-0. Hitting homers for Ivy were Kim Davison and Cathy Cifelli.

TOURNAMENTS TO START

In Summer Tennis. The women's singles tournament, the first of a series for the summer, will begin Saturday morning at 9 at the Princeton University Pagoda courts. Entries close at noon on Thursday.

Entries for the men's singles, which follows, will close next Thursday, June 24, according to tournament director John Bauman.

Also on Saturday, Doug MacCurdy of the Lawrenceville Tennis Camp will run a clinic from 1 to 3 at the Lawrenceville School courts. Open to the public without charge, it is designed to encourage players of all abilities to get more enjoyment from tennis.

The week of June 19-27 has been proclaimed National Play-Tennis Week in Princeton by Governor Brendan Byrne.

FREE TENNIS CLINIC

For West Windsor Residents. The West Windsor Recreation Commission will conduct a free tennis clinic for Township residents at the Township courts starting next Thursday evening from 7 to 8:30. William Stoner, pro at the Mercer County Tennis Center, and three assistants will be the instructors.

Subjects that Stoner will cover include the basic strokes, the serve, tennis strategy and how to use the backboard. Friday evening, June 25th, is the rain date.

The Commission has also announced that it will sponsor six leagues this summer. They are women's daytime and evening doubles leagues, men's early and late evening leagues, men's early morning league and a mixed adult doubles league.

Application forms for West Windsor residents only may be obtained at the Town Hall on Cranbury Road or the library in Dutch. There is no charge to play but each player must have a West Windsor tennis badge. Registration closes Sunday evening; The leagues will begin on July 5 and run to Labor Day. Entries are accepted on a first-come basis only.
